Foreword

THE unity of purpose so characteristic of the Musketeers, in whose honor this book is named, abetted by the progress of the twentieth century, forms the background for this our final contribution as undergraduates to St. Xavier College. The best of workmanship, the most beautiful of artistry, and the most literary of composition have been correlated into the unified work which we place before you. If this book suffices to perpetuate the memory of the Class of 1930, it will fulfill the fondest hopes of its makers.

Dedication

TO the people of Cincinnati who, in many and varied ways, have manifested their friendship for St. Xavier College, we, in grateful recognition of their services, dedicate this work. May their progress, so evident in recent years, continue apace with our own.

Liberal Arts Class of '30

Class History

Since the borderline between true appreciation and sentimental pathos is so very indistinct and the edge so treacherous, it is exceedingly difficult to write about things of which one is particularly fond. Therefore, it is with great trepidation that we approach the task of writing the History of the Liberal Arts Class of nineteen hundred and thirty. The story must in justice be a eulogy, but unfortunately, every senior class is eulogized as it departs from the Alma Mater, and the usual terms of praise have worn thin through long and hard usage. For this reason we ask that it be remembered that every tribute in the following paragraphs is literally true, and not mere hyperbolic rhetoric.

We are not going to ask you to climb to any high tower to achieve a vantage point from which the past four years can be taken in at a glance; we are not going to ask you to adopt any magic spectacles that will make the past the present, nor are we going to irritate you by telling the story in thinly veiled, diary-style of reminiscence, but simply state the facts, and let the achievements of "1930" be their passport to glory.

Foremost in the order of their achievements is the unique honor of winning the English Intercollegiate Contest, and twice gaining the Latin Intercollegiate. Available records fail to disclose another class in any of the Jesuit colleges of the Missouri or Chicago Provinces that has ever duplicated this feat. During his sophomore year, Timothy Hogan won the Latin Contest; and the following year, John Cook placed first in the English Contest. In the present year, Albert Worst duplicated Timothy Hogan's record by winning the Latin Contest. Louis Boeh, in his junior and senior year, was remarkably successful in the English Intercollegiate, placing second on both occasions. In addition, those men just mentioned placed in various positions in the contests in other years than those quoted in particular.

Another epochal achievement due largely to the untiring efforts and phenomenal ability of a member of the class, was the establishment of track athletics as part of the regular college program. The records of Jack Mahony will live long in the annals of St. Xavier, especially his world's record for the one hundred and seventy-five yard dash.

Turning to forensic activities, we may cite the winning of the regional Oratorical Contest on the Constitution by Edmund Doyle. There is little need to review the success of the Varsity Debating Team, whose personnel is taken largely from the Senior Class. The success of these men in the present year alone, as set forth elsewhere in this book, speaks sufficiently of the quality of the material furnished by the Class of '30.

These feats in such widely separated fields—scholastic, athletic and forensic—are singular accomplishments. They are the distinguishing features of the class's four-year tenure at St. Xavier. Though these accomplishments are indeed the work of individuals, as we must admit; they still remain the achievements of a unified class. The credit is equally reflected upon the member and upon his fellows who together form the class.

In addition, members of '30 have contributed much to the success and development of several college activities. The members have not devoted themselves entirely to the pursuits mentioned above; had their activity ended there, while they might have brought some fame to St. Xavier, they would not have been worthy of the honorable place their class holds in the history of the College. The greatest tribute that can be given to the Class of '30 is that its members have lent their support to every activity connected with St. Xavier.

The reader may judge of the accuracy of the above statement by reviewing the brief account of their record in various fields. Their invaluable service to the football, basketball, baseball and tennis teams accounts in a large measure for the outstanding success that has graced the efforts of Xavier's athletic teams in the past few years. Of course, the class does not claim that the sole reason for these successes lies in the ability of its members; but it would be hard to equal athletes like Tom Daugherty, Bob Elsbrock, Frank O'Bryan, Felix McCarthy, Robert Otto, Edward Tepe, Thomas Zumbiel and others in their respective fields. In debating, as was previously mentioned, the bulwark of the debating team in the past two years was composed of members from the Class of '30. Edmund Doyle, William Wise, John Cook, Milton Tobin and Louis Boeh are the names best known in connection with the College's success in this particular field. The two most successful years had by the Dante Club when it increased its membership and extended its activities, were during the presidency of Gale Grogan. Likewise, many recent movements at St. Xavier owe their origin to the activity of the class. For instance, we may point out the development of the Little Theater movement on the campus. And in dramatics, itself, men like Wise, Cook and Tobin have kept the interest of friends of the College turned toward this branch of the college activities. When the class leaves, many of the positions on the various college publications will be left vacant. Joseph McGuinness and Robert Otto managed the Xaverian News, and Louis Boeh and John Cook had charge of the Athenaeum; and besides these, other members held lesser positions. And it is for you, dear reader, to decide whether THE MUSKETEER has added anything to the reputation enjoyed by the class in the fields of journalism and literature.

A spirit of healthy camaraderie has always prevailed among the class members, and this perhaps accounts for the success of the two formal social functions under its management. The Junior Prom was one to be long remembered, and the Senior Ball, a very enjoyable dance. Besides these affairs, many enjoyable informal parties and picnics served to break the monotony of books and classes.

This is the record of the Class of '30. A peroration of eulogy is hardly necessary. We merely suggest the quotation: "By their works, ye shall know them."

LOUIS E. ADAMS

Piqua, Ohio

St. Mary's High School, Piqua, Ohio

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Clef Club I, II, III, IV;
Masque I, II; Cheer Leader II, III, IV; Heidelberg
Club III (Treasurer).

The Piqua contortionist. Exhorts the customers at football games to give their all and then throws in (or out) his own shoulder for good measure. A resident of Finn Lodge. One of the satellites of the Heidelberg Club. Has given numerous pep-talks in the C. S. M. C. meetings, but unfortunately the audience went to sleep. If "Sparky" ever said anything in class aloud, it would be worth listening to. Acquired his nickname by extensive municipal marches in the city of Piqua. Puts Woman on a pedestal and then can't get her off. Is responsible for the way the Union House looks. "Sparky" surely characterizes Lou, for he is one individual on the campus with a good measure of pep and loyalty.

CLARENCE H. BARNES

Cincinnati, Ohio

Elder High School

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Philopedian IV; Heidelberg
Club III, IV; Clef Club II, III.

Jess believes in American individualism. He likes to sleep in a warm atmosphere so he closes all the classroom windows. Has one of the most picturesque vocabularies, attained on his hiking trips through the West. Jess came to college with a tie on one day. No foolin'! He's our candidate in the "X" Neur contest for the best dressed man on the campus. Knows the ins and outs of porker's membranes and has recently been seen frequenting the environs of the stock yards in search of material for his thesis. Jess is one of the best-liked fellows in the class despite all we may say. However, we are sure that he'll never make a model for Burkhart's.

ROBERT H. BRUENEMAN

Norwood, Ohio
St. Xavier High School

The he-man from out Norwood way. One of the reasons why Cincinnati wishes to annex the smaller burg. Bob is the most modest fellow of the class. He'll always go out of his way to tell you how good he is. Knows the best and easiest ways to get his work, and makes the most of it. The champion pool artist of the class, spends every moment of his spare time in the Red Building. Ordered a horse blanket and then decided to wear it as an overcoat, but won't admit it. Bob is a regular attendant at all College functions, and always conducts himself as a gentleman. "Polished and gentlemanly" does not do justice to him.

LOUIS G. BOEH

Cincinnati, Ohio
St. Xavier High School

Intercollegiate English I, II, III, IV; Debate Team III, IV; Philopedian I, II, III, IV; Xavierian News IV; Oratorical IV; Dante Club III, IV; Musketeer IV; Athenaeum III, IV.

The boy who believes that only the "great" play chess. Very modest — wears earlaps so that he won't hear the compliments his admirers so carelessly cast about. One of the school's most promising confidence men. Has an incomparable library on "How to be a wrestler in your spare time". Lou spared enough time to throw his left leg out of joint applying a flying-mare to Kantian Idealism. Wasted four years attempting to win a place in the Intercollegiate English, and finally succeeded. At least he won a place as editor of the scholarly Athenaeum. Wears a derby to simulate prosperity, but looks are deceiving. An orator and literateur of promise.

JOHN H. COOK

Cincinnati, Ohio

St. Xavier High School

Sodality; Masque III, IV; Philopedian I, II, III, IV; Dante Club II, III, IV; Musketeer IV; Xaverian News IV; Athenaeum III, IV; Debate Team III, IV; Verkamp Debate II, III, IV; Inter-collegiate English II (fifth), III (first).

Jack is the lone-star ranger of the class. He has kept to himself pretty much and has given the class very little chance to meet him. However, at picnics he has turned out regularly, and is on friendly terms with many members of the class. His activities in writing stood him in good stead when he entered the English Intercollegiate, for he won the contest when he was only a Junior. Quite an accomplishment! He is a debater of no mean ability, and has represented St. Xavier on the platform for the last two years. He has been styled an aesthete, a rebel, a reactionary, an egoist; but we think that he is none of these, but rather a normal and likeable young man.

HAROLD T. CUTTER

Norwood, Ohio

Norwood High School

As anyone can see, Harold was never in danger of death from over-activity during his college career. He is proud of the fact that he is the sole member of the class who has never stooped to enter an activity. Is so quiet in and out of the class that he is continually hearing pins dropping. Whether he is in communion with the spirit world or just laboring under a want of expression no one will ever know. His one specialty is splitting bats at the initial baseball practice each spring. This naturally predisposes the management to give him the gate to the Stadium. Harold is said to be a wrestler of note. It is only too bad Harold did not give us the benefit of his worth.

THOMAS J. DAUGHERTY

Indianapolis, Indiana

Cathedral High School, Indianapolis, Indiana

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Football II, III, IV; Basketball II, III, IV (Captain); Baseball II, III, IV; "X" Club (President).

A modest violet from the Hoosier State who doesn't blush unseen. Tom is the life of the party whether it be on the gridiron, the diamond, the court, or the "Mount". Hails from Indianapolis (and from the dormitory windows) where he is the idol of the kindergartens. Has been president of the "X" Club since its organization as an undergraduate body, and devotes a great deal of effort to its furtherance. Some cynic has said that Tom watches the stands at a football game to see if the ushers are working efficiently, but we know that he is just gauging the wind, in order to run back those punts in his fine style. Tom is a real fellow and well liked among his mates.

JOHN B. DAUMEYER

Norwood, Ohio

St. Xavier High School

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Musketeer IV.

John is the worker of the class and for four years has engaged in the radio business as a side-line to his college activities. Is one of the connecting links between the Night School and the Avondale Branch. Johann has weaknesses for roller skates, Mexican jumping beans, second-hand dog biscuits, pink lemonade, and blondes. Has distinct ideas about the ideal girl and particularly enjoys the sociology classes because they give him an opportunity to talk about her. He makes the most of it and just tires out his friends with his chatter. Has been a wonderful aid to the advertising staff. We select Daumeyer as one of the four men who will be successful in life.

GEORGE J. DIRR

Mt. Healthy, Ohio

St. Xavier High School

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Philopedian III, IV; Masque II, III; Ring Committee; Heidelberg Club III, IV.

A serious-minded fellow who always looks on the practical side of things. This is why he's on the high road to being a benedict at present. Will belong to another ring committee of his own in the near future, but the cost of this venture will exceed that of the Senior hand pieces. Is vitally interested in real estate, too. Majored in elocution and can now deliver a two-minute speech without fracturing his tongue. Takes occasional trips to Europe as if it were an everyday occurrence. Runs a "Chev" that looks like the palanquin Frederick the Great rode in at the battle of Fallen Timbers—and all the timbers are falling off this hack. Georgie is quiet, but capable.

EDMUND D. DOYLE

Cincinnati, Ohio

St. Xavier High School

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Class President II, III, IV; Student Council II, III, IV (President); Oratorical I, II, III, IV; Verkamp Debate II, III, IV; Debate Team II, III, IV; Junior Prom Committee III, IV; Masque I, II, III, IV; Heidelberg Club III; Clef Club II; Philopedian I, II, III, IV; Musketeer IV; Dante Club I, II, III, IV.

The political gorilla of St. Xavier. Says that "Civilization is being crucified on a Crimson Cross of Communism". In four years he will be a barrister, so he says. A big puzzle to visiting debating teams. They can't cope with his casuistry and his hedging. Spends money for Prom corsages like a drunken sailor. Elected class president on the most ambiguous platform since the 1928 debacle. A handsome, debonair prom-king. (An argument for regicide.) His activities have been many as can be seen above, and the many accomplishments of his four years have not spoiled Ed.

ROBERT ELSBROCK

Reading, Ohio

Reading High School, Reading, Ohio

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Heidelberg Club III, IV; Baseball III, IV (Captain); "X" Club; Ring Committee.

The flash from Reading. Works hard and well on the diamond and has carved an enviable niche for himself in Xavier's baseball Hall of Fame. There is some dispute as to whether his degree shall be conferred by St. Xavier or by a neighboring institution, for Bob is a charter member of the Mount's Alpine Climbers Club. "Honey" is a first baseman of distinction and is a wizard at pulling down wild throws. Has saved the infielders a great many errors. A scientist and teacher in the making, for we hear that Bob plans to teach school. Sells ice cream and confections in the cafeteria, and always has on hand a supply of chewing gum. A student and athlete.

WILLIAM J. FERRIS

Delaware, Ohio

St. Mary's High School, Delaware, Ohio

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Philopedian IV; Ring Committee.

Bill is the fellow who stands at the cash register in the Schmidt Cafeteria and uses the Ferris system of calculation in figuring up the cost for fodder. He'll tell you any time that 2 plus 2 make 5 or maybe 7, but under no circumstances 4. Was one of the pioneers of Finn Lodge and was instrumental in giving the east end of the campus the colorful name that it now possesses. During sociology classes he makes protracted excursions into the land of Nod, and is longer than Commander Byrd in getting back to civilization. Only the dismissal bell can awaken him. The sergeant-at-arms of the Philopedian Society, who restrains the boys.

WILLIAM H. FRANK

Columbus, Ohio

Aquinas High School, Columbus, Ohio

Philopedian III, IV; Student Council IV; Heidelberg Club III, IV.

Ramon Novarro the second. Has a personality without equal in the whole school. Billyboy says he is a woman hater, but we know better. Blondes like good looking fellows. Bill has had several offers to be an Arrow Collar model, and last month came very near taking one up. When he found out he had to furnish his own collars, he declined. Hails from the capital city and resides in the Hall. A prospective scientist who should carve an enviable reputation for himself. Likes doughnuts and coffee, and can often be seen on their trail. Believes in prohibition and a protective tariff. Handsome and friendly.

EDWARD J. GEISER

Cheviot, Ohio

Hughes High School

Sodality IV (Prefect); C. S. M. C.; Heidelberg Club III, IV; Chess Club III, IV; Philopedian III, IV; Musketeer IV; Track III; Student Council III, IV.

Edward, the Cheviot chemist. Science has received much of Ed's attentions during his four years, and he says it will during the rest of his life. The fellows can give ample testimony to his scientific skill. The mainstay of the sodality. Has a collection of snapshots which he would not permit the Annual to use. Oh, Eddie, how could you? Another assassin of the mother-tongue. Wonders why the fellows keep quiet while he is talking. Thinks he is making a deep impression, but doesn't realize he isn't being understood. A producer of amateur plays. Joined the Chess Club and didn't know a king from a pawn. Industrious as well as studious.

GALE F. GROGAN

Cincinnati, Ohio

St. Xavier High School

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Chess Club II; Philopedian I, II, III, IV; Clef Club II, III; Xaverian News IV; Football II, III; Masque I, II, III, IV; Dante Club I, II, III, IV (President).

A mountaineer from Price Hill. The boy who made the Dante Club a very pleasurable affair. Is an insatiable arguer and has run the gamut of philosophy from metaphysical essence of the Socratic concept to the ideal postulate, and is now wavering between getting a mustache shave and purchasing a can of sardines. The real example of the vicious circle. Drives his "Chev" in a vicious circle when he studies. His favorite phrase is, "a six in the price range of a four." We wonder where he got it. Gathers material for his witty column in the News by traveling around in a Superior Chevrolet burning up the company's gas. Has often been mistaken for Ichabod Crane when gamboling along the bridle path.

GEORGE WILLIAM GROOM

Circleville, Ohio

Circleville High School

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Clef Club I, II, III.

Herr Groom is a quiet chap from Circleville. Is a member of the illustrious Groom group from that town. George always gives the impression of having more in his head than one thinks; a boy with plenty reserve power. Was going to make the polo team, but thought better of it and repented, showing some of his vast knowledge. Has very set ideas on the Ideal Girl, and likes to propound them. Since little is known concerning George's activities, it is a great sport to invent happenings; but he usually has an air-tight alibi and takes it as it is meant. Tries to conduct himself as a gentleman in the midst of ungentlemanly men.

LOUIS F. HELLEBUSCH

Covington, Kentucky

St. Xavier High School

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Cheer Leader I, II, III, IV;
"X" Club.

Lou is the Covington contribution to the betterment of the College. Is known about the school as the chubby cheer leader who is responsible for so much noise in the kids' section at the football games. A real hero worshiper who goes out of his way to lend a helping hand. Laugh and grow fat seems to be typical of Lou for he is the wearer of a perpetual smile and his photograph will testify to his rotundity. Has been waiting for three years to fail French and simply can't get down to it. "Baby-face Lou," as some of the boys persist in calling Louis F., is the owner of the most disreputable hat in school, and he insists on wearing it to all College functions. A bushel of energy!

EDWARD C. HOBAN

Chicago, Illinois

Campion Prep, Prairie du Chien, Wisconsin

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Student Council IV; Clef Club I, II; Prom Committee III, IV; Musketeer IV.

"Let me be first, Pres!" The secretary of the Student Council and exercise boy at the Summit. Ed is a model student if one remembers that there are several types of models. Worked for years on his penmanship, and after many struggles finally won the Palmer Medal for Penmanship. Is a great student and has an extensive library garnered from the shelves of the Mary G. Lodge Reading Room. Hails from Chicago, Rockford, and vicinity, and is a real man-about-town. Goes in for philosophy and other deep studies, and can often be found in philosophical meditation. Other people call it slumber. An ideal member of a prom committee, and a real fellow.

CHARLES M. HOGAN

Cincinnati, Ohio

Campion Prep, Prairie du Chien, Wisconsin

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Philopedian IV; Debate Team IV;

Winner of the Latin and English Intercollegiate medals, French prize, Philosophy award, Law Scholarship, Verkamp Debate medal—according to a dream he once had in a roseate haze of mathematical abstraction. Baron Munchausen brought up to date. Charley always wonders why his listeners always look so incredulous when he begins to talk. Charley is one of the youngest of the class in years and one of the wisest in counsel, for he talks categorically on all subjects. Specializes in philosophical and scientific studies and is training his career toward electrical engineering. Likes to formulate syllogisms and eats them for dessert. A debater who should develop into a wonder.

FRANCIS P. HOWARD

Columbus, Ohio

St. Mary's High School, St. Mary's, Kansas

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Philopedian II.

Cal Crim, Ora Slater, the Pinkerton Agency, and six other detective agencies could not find sufficient material about Frank to fill a stamp book. All we know about him has been gleaned from superficial observation; for never was there a more quiet fellow. Attends sodality meetings and debates and feels as he has done his share of the activities. Draws good grades in his studies. Won't tell us what the P in his name stands for, but we can make a very good guess. We'd say aPalling. Frank dashes off for home as soon as class is over, so we'd say there must be some attraction there. Studious and capable.

The Musketeer

WILLIAM I. HUESING

Ft. Thomas, Kentucky

St. Xavier High School

Masque I, II, III, IV; Ring Committee; Sodality; Musketeer IV.

Bill comes near being the class wit, but he lacks just half the required talent. Is a performer of note (or notes) on a bass violin, which he always carries in his vest pocket. He also does well on a bassoon. Gets along well with the Irish; she likes him, too, 'tis said, though no one can understand why. Was the one member of the ring committee who didn't think the rings looked like sections from a gas pipe. The jewelry concern had an Irish salesman. Expected a Pi Alpha Mu key, but received a key to the seismograph station instead. Still doesn't know the difference. The reporter of the Intramurals for the "books". Only regretted he wasn't the star. Fort Thomas must be all right.

ALOYSIUS G. KEMME

St. Bernard, Ohio

St. Xavier High School

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Clef Club I, II, III, IV (Secretary).

Al, the boy with the big bass voice—the timber of the Clef Club. Got his training in the burg of St. Bernard among the natives. Is a staunch minion of the Clef Club and sings silent parts best. Often warbles in Community Choruses and May Festivals where the (wild) pitch of his deep-throated roar won't be easily detected. Quite frequently bursts out in such stentorian shouting during singing in chapel that startles even the organist. Loves to play on the violin and wishes he knew how. However, since he plays in many orchestras our judgment may be warped. A member of the polo club, but withal, a good fellow.

FRANKLIN A. KLAINE

Ft. Thomas, Kentucky

St. Xavier High School

Sodality; Musketeer IV; Xaverian News II, III, IV; Student Council IV; Masque II, III, IV.

The big iron and steel man from old Kaintuck. His "Good-will" has won him many friends and a great deal of fame. Comes from the backwoods of Fort Thomas and is woefully ignorant of Cincinnati politics. Made the acquaintance of several of our judges, and went back home with no love for them. Sneeringly, some one has said, "Klaine's motto is, 'Peace on earth, Good-Wills to men!'" We think it should be worded "women". A recent plebiscite of the local ladies revealed the fact that Frank is not so "hot". However, in a statement to the press, Klaine said he would make it "Hot for them with Good-Wills". An advertising solicitor who would always write-up an ad if it fell in his lap.

KILIAN A. KIRSCHNER

Cincinnati, Ohio

St. Xavier High School

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Philopedian III, IV (Secretary); Clef Club I, II, IV; Musketeer IV (Circulation Manager); Xaverian News IV; Masque IV; Ring Committee; Dante Club; Heidelberg Club III, IV.

The big soup and waffle man from Sixth street. Plans to destroy the digestions of some twenty million Americans before he quits. Likes to assassinate the King's English. His far-famed speeches in the Philopedian Society have always been noted for their "inconsistency and inefficiency". "Klux" has the distinction of being the oldest as well as one of the most popular members of the class. May often be found giving parental advice to wayward Freshmen and even calls some of the Alumni to task for not being up to the minute in all the big words in Webster. Often expounds some homely philosophy that requires an Arabian soothsayer for interpretation.

VINCENT A. KRAMER

Norwood, Ohio

St. Xavier High School

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Musketeer IV.

Vin is the big Norwood man-about-town. He has kept his talents pretty much to himself, and it took a representative of the Pinkerton agency go procure the meager material which we set down here. The brass industry has been kept going for the past four years by virtue of Vin's activities on Broadway. There is some difficulty about his upper limbs which is hard to understand. Is in the habit of using one of them to advantage. As a member of the circulation staff, Vin has displayed an ability as a salesman, which will surely stand him in good stead in his chosen field of business. Sure to be a success.

AMBROSE M. LAFFERTY

Scipio, Indiana

Scipio High School

Heidelberg Club III, IV.

The Hoosier boy with the quiet temperament. Mike boasts of curly brunette locks, which are the envy of the Good Sam. Knows his stuff about running Hinkle Hall and about the proper decorum on class picnics. Went out for the no-activities championship, but faltered just once. Joined the Dutch Club. Likes to recline upon the sward at Fort Scott. Has rosy cheeks which can be seen in the dark. One of the most energetic boys in Finn Lodge and the most friendly. Is always expounding the merits of living in a small town, and sometimes bore us with roseate pictures of his beloved Scipio. A quiet, but impulsive youth.

FELIX T. McCARTHY

Norwood, Ohio

St. Xavier High School

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Football II, III, IV.

Mac always wanted to be a genuine gentleman, so he broke his ankle in order to be able to carry a cane. Is the only individual in the College who has a novel way to escape recitation. He assumes a characteristic McCarthy expression and the profs are all afraid to question him. Ran into tough luck in football, for just when he had things in the bag, the ankle snapped. His pluck has made him a marked man among the other footballers. Although he makes the rounds of the city with General Electrics, we contend Mac would make an ideal traffic cop. He has all the qualifications. If the sun shines every day, Mac should have a very bright future. We hope so.

JOSEPH J. MCGUINNESS

Cincinnati, Ohio

St. George High School

Xaverian News II, III, IV (Business Manager); Clef Club I, II, III, IV; Philopedian I; Musketeer IV; Athletic Programs; Athenaeum II; Song Book III.

Button up your overcoat and hold on to the family purse strings; here we have Jo-Jo, the super-business man. This individual has dabbled in everything financial since he entered St. Xavier. In fact, the boys have come to believe that nothing will be a financial success unless he is appointed business manager. Joe always has his eyes open when anyone begins to talk money. As business manager of the Xaverian News, he enforced a system of economy which aided the News considerably and boded well for Joe's success in life. Joe should enjoy great success in the financial world, for he received a good foundation in that art through the Xavier publications.

DONALD J. McHALE

Cincinnati, Ohio

St. Mary's High School

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Clef Club I, II, III, IV
(President); Musketeer IV; Student Manager;
Prom Committee; "X" Club.

"McTavish" is the yodeler of the class. Breaks out into song at the slightest provocation, much to the regret of those in his vicinity. Don has lent a helping hand in everything connected with the College and especially with the athletic activities. Has been known to visit the Mount on proximate occasions. A prom king, who had all the required regality. Comes to school looking like a well-dressed man, but by eleven o'clock appears as if he hadn't shaved for a week. Spent four years learning the French tongue and didn't succeed. Handsome, debonair, and suave. A real friend.

JOHN J. MAHONEY

Cleveland, Ohio

Cathedral Latin High, Cleveland, Ohio

Holy Cross I, II.

Track III (Captain), IV (Captain); "X" Club.

The speed demon from up Cleveland way. Jack is the fastest thing on feet, as many of his opponents have found out. Any further information on his skill may be found in the track write-up. The possessor of the soprano voice which so often breaks out of the quiet of the night. A well-known authority on the ancient game of bridge and even Mr. Whitehead has been known to consult him on divers problems. The early-riser of the dorm. Wakes up all the other boys. Hasn't missed a social affair within a radius of ten miles for the past two years. A fast friend.

ROBERT L. OTTO

Cincinnati, Ohio

St. Xavier High School

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Xavierian News IV (Editor); Masque III, IV; Philopedian I, II, III, IV; Musketeer IV; Baseball III, IV; Heidelberg Club III, IV.

Just another loyal Xavierian who writes on school-spirit, pep, and noble gridiron heroes. Bob has yet to be seen sans a big black cigar. He thinks it lends tone to his editorial appearance which must be kept up at all costs. Attempts to pitch for the Varsity, and when he gets them over, is unbeatable. Was made editor of the Xavierian News and immediately flooded it with his many radical ideas. As a result, he was in hot water periodically—but what editor is not? The sociology class receives its staunch orthodox doctrines from ye editor, who intermittently breaks out with a thought or a rash. Is quite adept at writing and aspires to a journalistic career. A live wire!

JOHN J. PAGE

Cincinnati, Ohio

St. Xavier High School

Sodality; Philopedian II, III; Clef Club II, III.

Jack was touted and groomed for the Latin Inter-collegiate this year and considered a favorite, but he fell asleep on the bus the morning of the contest, although he usually waits for class to begin, and woke up in Deer Park at 9:30, thereby missing his chance for classical fame. Jack is well known about the bowl of the city and is an expert on mange-cures. Has grown from sweet boyhood to strong manhood during his stay at St. Xavier, and is exceptionally well-behaved. Tried to play basketball and got as far as the finals of the intramurals. Is one of the prize students from out Vine street way. Seems to have a secret ambition to wear yellow spats and mauve ties. A loyal Xavierian!

DANIEL D. POWERS

Cincinnati, Ohio

Walnut Hills High School

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Clef Club I.

One of the quietest boys of the class, but one who, when he does speak his mind, says plenty. Danny has a first base voice—we vote for short stop. Is an authority on all the roads to Circleville and the by-lanes around the burg. Finances his own solitaire games and between card losses and airplane rides, he's always broke. Has some interest in Delaware. Dan's seven-league boots make him the idol of the colored race, for he is often mistaken for Abraham Lincoln as he walks along the paths of the hilltop. Specializes in making co-eds happy on birthdays and sundry holidays. A bright light of the Spanish class, and probably could talk down any number of senoritas. A gem from Walnut Hills!

JOHN J. RENSING

Cincinnati, Ohio

St. Mary's High School

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Musketeer IV (Secretary);
Xaverian News IV.

Johannes, Julius, Junius, Jacob, Jack, Jacky-boy, and uh-uh just Rensing. The real man from Hyde Park. The terror of bandits and highwaymen. Julius once insulted a history prof by telling him he didn't have the proper historical viewpoint of the Locarno Packed. "Juny" thought it was a new kind of toothpaste. Is a true boy scout; even does his daily good deed for the professors. Is an athlete of some ability, and delights in telling other people about it. Has a secret yearning to get injured and be taken to the Good Samaritan. Is the originator of the Rensing Hunt and Poke Method of Typewriting, which can be relied upon to average four words per minute. A real reporter with a nose for news. A future journalist.

CHARLES H. ROTH

Cincinnati, Ohio

Elder High School

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Masque I, II, III, IV;
Philopedian I, II, III, IV; Ring Committee;
Musketeer I, II, III, IV.

Charlie is the designer of the College book-plate, "seat distributor" for the Masque Society, captain of the polo team, etc. Has taken myriads of lady friends to tea parties, art and shooting galleries. Registered at St. Xavier since he understood that the curriculum included a course in horseback riding because of the adjacent bridle path. Charlie is an aesthetic soul who affects Lord Byron collars and Windsor ties. He is an artist of rank, and his work has evoked much favorable criticism. Examples of it may be found in this book. Is active in all theatricals about school and has achieved renown as a designer of programs. The pride and joy of Price Hill.

LAWRENCE J. RYAN

Brookville, Indiana

St. Xavier High School, Cincinnati, Ohio

Masque III, IV.

Larry hails from out Brookville way. Has the old Indiana style of punkin' tossin' down pat, and very often gives classic examples of his ability. Was the star of the intramurals until he was taken down by Mr. Appendicitis. Larry says he did not relish the acquaintance. Makes up for lost sleep in English class, and gives all his books hard wear. He uses them for pillows. Doesn't know what a syllogism is although he deals with them every day. Is especially congenial on all class parties, and has never been known to miss one. Is a regular passenger in a certain tumble-down "Chev", which often is behind the College and can relate tales of many adventures in it. Ambition personified!

GREGORY J. SANDKER

Cincinnati, Ohio

St. Mary's High School

Sodality; C. S. M. C.

The commuter from Mt. Washington. Has a variety of old cars which would make even the Continental Wrecking Company jealous. Greg runs the express from the East End, and is the salvation of many late-comers from that neighborhood. Played football for several years, and finally decided he was not a star. How he decided it no one seems to know. Another quiet chappie who refused to divulge any secrets for publication here. Has been known to emerge from his 10:10 beauty-nap to give his opinions on the Idealistic Concept of the Devil and such deep subjects. Has connections with the dental industry, yet has never given out any complimentary tickets. The exponent of an old blue sweater. A friendly fellow!

ANDREW J. SCHMIDT

Reading, Ohio

St. Xavier High School

Sodality; Masque I, II, III, IV; Clef Club III, IV; Philopedian I, II, III, IV.

Andy comes from that quaint and dear old town of Reading. Is a distant relative of the many other famous men from that town. Runs a car which he affectionately calls "the ancient Cheesebox". It is wonderfully and fearfully made, yet it continues to run, and gets him to ethics class on time. We hold that Andy leaves home at 6:00 to make it, but he claims not. Joined the Clef Club to let his friends know what a sweet voice he has. Furnished the orchestra for the "Taming of the Shrew", and people are still wondering whether the orchestra was there or not. The Smithsonian Institute has been pestering Andy with offers for his equipage, but Andy has been holding out for five dollars.

JAMES F. SHEA

Columbus, Ohio

Aquinas High School

Track III, IV; Heidelberg Club III, IV (President); Philopedian III, IV.

The Columbus terror. Jim is the pride of the Dutch class, and is president of the Heidelberg Club. Can rattle off more German in five minutes than a soap-box orator on Wilhelmstrasse. Finn Lodge's best resident, has been known to sleep there even during exams. Still can draw down good notes, however. Learning to be a telephone operator, and can swear with the best of them. A staunch advocate of the "eight-hour" day. A baseball player who won't quit. Was too modest to have his photograph taken, until the staff took him down to the studio. Likes to imitate Jack Dempsey, and bids fair to excel in the manly art. Jimmy is a devoted exponent of more class parties. A college man!

GEORGE A. STALEY

Cincinnati, Ohio

Withrow High School

University of Dayton I

Notre Dame II

The auburn-haired boy who joined us as a Junior, and at once took a place in the College. "Yatz" tried everything once. Likes to show his knowledge about laundry machinery and clothes. Sells them to the fellows. An inspiring orator on class picnics, yet an unconvincing one. Has a weakness for brunettes and pasteboards. Drives a big "Hup" and runs the express to the cafeteria. George enjoys the ethics class, for he says the chairs are the most comfortable of any in the school. He ought to know. Spent four years in the French class trying to figure out what "Depechez-vous!" meant. A sleight-of-hand artist of the first rank. Was a real addition to the Class of '30.

R. EDWARD TEPE

Norwood, Ohio

Norwood High School

Sodality (Assistant Prefect) IV; C. S. M. C.; Philopedian III, IV; Chess Club IV; Xaverian News II, III; Student Council III; Masque III, IV; Basketball III, IV; Baseball III, IV; Musketeer III, IV (Editor); "X" Club.

The versatile lad from Norwood. We are afraid to tell the whole truth about the editor. He finally talked the management into awarding him a basketball letter, and then played short to get one in baseball. Works like a Trojan on Annual copy, court, diamond, and persons who use Marchand Golden Hair Wash. Plans law as a career and burdens himself with work in preparation. The professor's idea of a real college man. Diplomatic with his recalcitrant staff, but often incurs their wrath in his search for write-ups. A quiet and unassuming lad who is given over to talking about Eddie. Pleasant and affable, and bound to succeed. He deserves it.

MILTON D. TOBIN

Cincinnati, Ohio

St. Xavier High School

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Philopedian I, II, III, IV; Masque I, II, III, IV; Debate Team IV; Ring Committee Chairman.

College boulevardier and broadcaster. Mistaken three times for Maurice Chevalier. Milt is able to impress the uninitiated with his importance. Combines the attributes of party crasher, chiseler, dance hall inspector, and champion of the proletariat to excellent advantage. Took four years of the Roman tongue and still wonders what "amor" is all about. Can tap anything from an authentic Irish jig or a Broadway reel to a hogshead of Elixir of Life. Imports his dress clothes from New York, no less. His brother lives there. He'll probably talk the clerk out of the license fee on the day of his marriage. Never uses the front door at any function. But withal, Milt is a very likeable chap.

MALVIN H. UCHTMAN

Norwood, Ohio

Norwood High School

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Philopedian IV; Clef Club I, II; Musketeer IV (Business Manager); Student Manager; Masque III, IV; "X" Club.

Just call me Bill! One of the financial "whizzers" of the campus—never goes off. He will be remembered for his scene shifting in the "Taming of the Shrew", when the largest moment of his life came as the curtain was accidentally raised between acts. Mal's industry is greatly responsible for the rear of this book. With his looks anyone could be successful. Was conductor of entertainment for the class. Is keen in managerial ability as evidenced in being chosen for football managership and for that of the MUSKETEER. Mal was a great and convincing success in both.

FRANCIS J. VAUGHAN

Louisville, Kentucky

St. Xavier High School, Louisville, Kentucky

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Philopedian I, II, III (Secretary), IV (President).

The Falls City representative in the Class of 1930. "Hank" is the leading scholastic and orator of the outfit. The president of the Philopedian, who tries to inculcate some degree of respectability in the members. Runs a literary salon in Elet Hall, which is the meeting place of all the intelligentsia. Corresponds regularly with admirers in Lima and Louisville. Beats the drum in the band, and has gone through four of them in two years. May be found at any Good Sam dance. "Hank" joined the Clef Club as a means to further his musical ability. Drums on the piano and calls it playing. "Hank" is typically Irish, an excellent student, a true friend and a hard worker.

ROBERT S. WENSTRUP

Cincinnati, Ohio
St. Xavier High School
University of Cincinnati I
 C. S. M. C.; Clef Club II.

Patty-cake, patty-cake, patty-cake—here cometh Shrimpton, the original literateur. "Oh, yaas, I've read that. Now, what's it all about? Hasn't been published yet! Now, the bally old thing! Well, well, fawncy that." Claims he is a descendant of the House of Orange. Will establish his ancestral estate on Bold Knob. "Schooner" sails around in the Traction Company's char-a-bancs. Put down sodality as one of his activities and didn't know that it held meetings. The well-dressed man, and a dead ringer for the Prince of Wales. A bridge fanatic of the worst order and can often be found seated at a bridge table with his thesis book in his hand. For all that, he is a good fellow.

FRED J. WILKIEMEYER

Muskogee, Oklahoma
St. Joseph High School, Muskogee, Oklahoma
 Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Football II, III; Tennis III, IV; Musketeer IV.

The Oklahoma cowboy. Fred is the big, burly type from out on the prairies. Surprised everyone with his ability when taking care of the MUSKETEER circulation. Tried football and then decided to stick to lassoing. Cavorts about the tennis court in a spirited fashion and likes to show his prowess to the fair sex. Fred claims to be a woman hater, but we think it a clever disguise. A resident of the Hall, who entertains his neighbors with songs, dances, and solos on the ukelele. Bids fair to be the world's greatest artist on said instrument. Enjoys philosophy classes because he can discourse on Kant, Descartes and the rest. The blonde Titan from Muskogee.

EDWARD J. WILLS

Cincinnati, Ohio

Elder High School

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Clef Club III, IV.

Ed is one of the strong, silent men appearing like the fortune teller's picture of a dark man about to cross your path. His reserve has made him one of the mystery men of the class. "Harry," as he hates to be called, drives one of the Henry the Seconds. The accommodation from Price Hill arrives each morning at 8:29. His pool-shooting in the Union House is the admiration of all, and at any time Ed may be found giving examples of his skill to unsophisticated Freshmen. His only worry is whether he will look dignified when marching up for his diploma. A very serious fellow who can be friendly.

WILLIAM J. WISE

Newport, Kentucky

St. Xavier High School

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Student Council I; Masque I, II, III, IV (President).

Names mean nothing in Bill's case. He never acts that way. Thrills the academy girls when he gives readings from Dante—but who listens to the lectures anyway? How's it feel to be good-looking, Bill? Student Council representative, official one year, unofficial the other three. Debates well in the Mary Lodge Reading Room, but much better on class parties. The suave, sophisticated man-about-town. Heaven's gift to the Recreation Commission. Speaks for the W. C. T. U. on occasions and knows how to handle the fair sex. At least he ought to after the "Tanning" of the Shrew. Wouldn't add Debate Team to his activities. An orator and actor in the making.

RICHARD G. WITTE

Cincinnati, Ohio

St. Xavier High School

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Philopedian II, III, IV.

The Clifton bridge shark. Dick has a decided weakness for bridge parties on adjacent campuses where they serve refreshments. The St. Xavier publicity agent, for he spends his spare time carrying the fame of the school to all the hilltop vicinities. Has yet to miss a school dance and has even carried dates to the debates. A member of the debating team which holds its meetings in subterranean passages. Dick is a real specimen of the "over the Rhine" youth. Is a walking news bureau on happenings of rival institutions. Tries his hand at talking in class and invariably gets caught. The advocates of the historical viewpoint. An urbane Senior.

ALBERT J. WORST

Cincinnati, Ohio

St. Xavier High School

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Philopedian III, IV (Chairman Committee on Debates); Xavierian News I, II, III, IV; Intercollegiate Latin III (Eighth), IV (Winner); Chess Club; Intercollegiate English IV.

Al is a quiet chap and we don't know much about him, but we suspect he has a secret passion to stand high in his studies. The boy who brought renown to St. Xavier by winning the Latin contest. He enjoys telling Freshmen how to study twenty-four hours a day. Always prepared for emergencies. Knows a lot that he never gets credit for knowing, but says he will get his reward hereafter. Is willing to aid his faltering classmates, and gives private lessons in any subject two or three minutes before each class. Has literary aspirations, and expects to do great things. Unassuming, but brilliant.

THOMAS J. ZUMBIEL

Latonia, Kentucky

St. Xavier High School

Sodality; C. S. M. C.; Tennis III, IV.

A hail fellow well met, but no one ever meets Tom. Spends his spare time playing cribbage with the official dust disseminator in the subterranean caverns of Science Hall. Drives a large LaSalle car with a vengeance. Intrepid Nimrod—once shot a cinnamon bear at the Zoo with a bean-shooter. Has hunted all over Mt. Washington. His cavortings on the tennis court have at times enkindled the light of admiration in spectators' eyes and caused flutterings in the heart of many a blonde lassie. Tom is the consistent plugger who usually gets along in the world. Likes to listen to the seismograph in operation, and often debates in sign language with the porter in Hinkle Hall. Appreciates an education.

Commerce Class of '30

Class History

The Senior Commerce Class of nineteen hundred and thirty is on the brink of graduation, and as we look into the future we wonder of the past. We think of the four years spent together, and of the many acquaintances made and enjoyed during our sojourn at St. Xavier. We think how we entered just four years ago with all the dash and enthusiasm which accompanies a new enterprise, and then how many lost that fire or found they did not have it originally and resigned from the class.

The few of us who struggled through to a completion of the hardest four years which many have experienced, feel proud that throughout the course, we have held on to the vision of graduation and have finally attained it. We entered St. Xavier from various schools and from many walks of life. We leave it welded into a unified class who regret their departure.

While we are proud of being graduates of St. Xavier, we hope that St. Xavier is proud of us. We have attempted to fulfill the obligations of ideal students and we can only hope that we have succeeded. If we have not, do not judge us too harshly. We have tried and no man can do more.

Before departing, we must put into words the sentiments which we have so often thought, namely, of the great debt of gratitude which we owe to our professors who patiently have borne with our shortcomings and have aided us and corrected us in matters referring to class work and in those bearing on our personal lives.

Among ourselves, we have cemented bonds of friendship which graduation will not and cannot sever. The years to come will see us still friends as we have been throughout our stay here. This friendship, let us hope, will continue unabated until the grave.

Our fellow students have formed a vital part of our lives and we feel that though the achievement of success in studies will not cut us off from associations which have been a great source of pleasure to us. Though we may not see them as often as we have during the past, the spirit of the Musketeers has been ingrained too deeply in our hearts to allow absence to make us forget.

We have yet a few weeks remaining before we again settle down to the strife of life untempered by the aid of more knowledge. Let us in this brief time, make the resolution never to stop in our search for knowledge and though we may not have again the advantage of continuing the search as a group, let us not forget then as individuals we may accomplish things worthy of merit.

And so throughout the remainder of our stay in the world, let us not forget the great lessons taught to us so forcibly at St. Xavier, that nothing is gotten without hard work. We may dream of great accomplishments without ever attaining them in reality, but as soon as we realize the necessity of labor in their pursuit, we shall succeed in performing the tasks which day-dreamers love to think of as accomplished.

We have had the preparation for life, and it remains to us to procure every bit of success which we can get out of it. With the help of Almighty God, we shall do so.

EDMUND D. DOYLE
Senior Class President

Ed has been Class President for three consecutive years, and his re-elections bear mute testimony to the confidence that the Class has always had in him to their satisfaction with his executive methods. His predominant characteristic in office has been his pertinacity. Always on the alert for the class welfare and prestige, he has prosecuted every plan of action that has been advanced by the class majority to the very end, or rather, to its final success.

In a marked degree he possesses the essential requirements for a class president. He has always been personally popular, has had few opponents and no enemies. On occasion, the class has split over issues, but Ed could always be depended on to heal the breach to the satisfaction of all concerned. He has always maintained an admirable non-partisanship in all dissensions; but he could never be accused of carrying water on both shoulders. His private opinions, however, never interfered with his official expression.

He has participated with distinction in various College activities. For three years he has been one of the mainstays of both the Debating Team and the Dante Club; he has played several roles in Masque Society productions, and he is the only member of the class who has succeeded in making the finals of the Washington Oratorical Contest in all four years. His speaking abilities are widely recognized; he has twice represented the College in state-wide oratorical contests, and has, on both occasions, done merit to the school and to himself.

Senior Class

Here they are, one of the largest classes that Xavier has ever graduated. Soon the group will be broken up into individuals and small segments, but a union of spirit will endure. Class bonds at St. Xavier have always been strong because there are no recognized fraternities to menace solidarity; but in the case of '30, the co-operative impulse has been more marked than usual. For four years they have all worked in complete unison with no disturbing element to mar the spirit of friendship and co-operation.

It is an economic adage that "Diversification is the first principle of investment". The Seniors wishing to invest in class success have always remembered this maxim, so we find them taking leading parts in all College activities. On the fields of sport we have seen Daugherty, Elsbrock, Mahony, McCarthy, Otto, Tepe, Uchtman, Zumbiel and Tim Hogan cover themselves with glory. Grogan and Steins have managed the destinies of the Dante Club, and Boeh, Cook, Doyle and Wise were also members of this organization. Wise won the Washington Oratorical Contest. Boeh and Worst kept the class record in the Intercollegiate Contests. Boeh, Cook, Doyle, C. Hogan, Tobin and Wise were members of the Debating Team. At the head of other activities we find the names of Otto, Tepe, Uchtman, Klaine, Vaughan, Downing and McGuinness. But the real list of leaders may be found just beneath the class picture.

Socially, scholastically and athletically, '30 has been one of the finest classes that Xavier has yet seen. It had been a balanced unit and has left its mark etched deeply in the records of a great College.

ROBERT W. EGBERS
Junior Class President

Were any man in the Class of 1931 asked to point out the St. Xavier student who best conforms to the ideal set up by Laertes in his advice to Polonius, there is no doubt but that he would name the Class President, Robert W. Egbers. And the vote of approval of the student body would be unanimous.

Conscientious in all that he does, Bob was not swayed by the vacillations of popular opinion in his endeavor to effect the greatest good for the greatest number of the Class. He did not precede his actions with the trumpets of bombastic braggartism, nor did he follow them with a hymn of praise.

Bob was an invaluable aid to the football team last season, winning his letter for the first time. He was greatly hampered by illness in his Sophomore year.

Junior Class

First Row—WELCH, CUSHING, VORWOLDT, MCDEVITT, RICHMOND, CLINES, EGBERS, SELZER, WAGNER, GRIFFIN, DEDDENS, HESSELBROCK, HOPE, BRAND. Second Row—DORNHEGGEN, JOHNSON, KELLY, SPEIGHT, HAMILTON, BREITFELDER, FOLEY, WULFTANGE, MUCKERHEIDE, MEINERS, CHARLS, FIPP, MAYER. Third Row—COSTELLO, HOWARD, KILCOYNE, MANNING, JOSEPH, HAAS, HARMON, LUEBBERS, HEILKER, HEISELMAN, MERSCH, BYRON, RIELAGE, DOYLE. Fourth Row—HAYES, ROMER, EILERMAN, PFIRMAN, STOUT, WILLETT, VONDER HAAR, WINTER, TRACY, PETRANKA, OBERTING, GROOM, BARTLETT, SULLIVAN.

Here is one in a hundred—the St. Xavier Centennial Class. Its unique good fortune of having appeared on the campus just four years before the magic century-mark has made the Class of '31 alert to every opportunity for carrying its momentous role with distinction. "One in a hundred" is the appellation that it has been jealously guarding in the field of contemporary college activities as well as in the calendared archives.

The leadership of Robert W. Egbers has been no small factor in welding the class into the efficient unit which has responded to every demand made upon it. All affairs traditionally under the auspices of the Juniors were conducted by committees representing the class with a taste that will make them memorable.

Individual endeavor that displayed a conscious effort to stamp the "'31" on every campus activity has met with unflinching success. Along with Captain-elect Dave Harmon, a band of Juniors, including Rielage, Foley, McDevitt, Hope, Deddens and Egbers, have contributed to the gridiron reputation of the Musketeers. Tracy, Hope, Bartlett and Stout solved many of Coach Meyer's difficulties in making up a court squad. Brand garnered many points for the track team. Baseball found Bode, Tracy, Rielage, Harmon, Deddens, Keeley and Haas on the squad, while tennis claimed the activities of Winter and Clines. Richmond, Luebbbers, and Clines were regulars on the golf team.

All college publications have welcomed the literary abilities of Muckerheide, Mayer, Willett, Johnson, Winter, Clines, Foley, Vonder Haar, Kelly, Vorwoldt and Luebbbers. Forensic honors have been upheld by Edwin Heilker.

ANDREW J. SCHMIDT
Sophomore Class President

When the present Sophomore Class met last May to elect its president for the coming year, its members had decided upon what qualities they wished their leader to possess. They demanded, first of all, a man with imagination and foresight, and secondly, that he have executive ability. With the former qualities he could decide the proper way of meeting all emergencies, and with the latter, the most efficient means of carrying out these measures.

Since the Sophomore Class is composed of students who think logically, it did what was obviously wisest. It elected Andy Schmidt—or Andrew J. Schmidt, as the cards of the popular gentleman read.

The election of Andy was in part caused by the gratitude that every member of the class felt was due him, for there was never a class president who worked harder for his class and school than he. His efficiency was increased by his experience, for before he was elected to the presidency in his Freshman year, he had been four times president of his class at St. Xavier High School. He had also been captain of the football team there. In both of these positions he had been eminently successful. He has added to the lustre of his record by his achievements at St. Xavier.

Not only the Class of '32, but all who know him admire and respect Andrew J. Schmidt, for it can truly be said of him that he is a "scholar and a gentleman".

Sophomore A-B

The Sophomore Class of this year was not only the largest, but also, with all humility on its part, the outstanding class of the 1929-1930 school year. "Andy" Schmidt, who so ably piloted the Freshman Class last year, was again chosen to guide his class through a year of crowning success. The Sophomore representatives to the Student Council were John Nolan and Elmer Glassmeyer. With two such able assistants Andy's duties were rendered considerably easier.

The organization of the Class of '32 is indeed worthy of commendation. At the outset, Louis Krue was elected class secretary, and it was determined to hold regular meetings every other Tuesday. It was largely due to this organization that the Sophomore Class accomplished such splendid results.

Sophomores entered into every activity on the campus. Along scholastic lines they put forth a true and honest effort which showed excellent results. Three Sophomores, John Anton, William Muehlenkamp and Robert Maggini, held positions on the College debating squad. The first two of the above mentioned were also participants in the Oratorical Contest. Ten Sophomores were on the staff of the Xaverian News. In the Dante Club we find the Sophomores represented by Anton, Buller, Feldhaus, Hilbert, Maggini, Murphy and Ostholthoff. In the Masque Society the Sophomores were very active and well represented. Listed in the cast and on the business staff of the Masque Society's annual play are the names of seven Sophomores. It is also most likely that many Sophomores will compete in the Verkamp Debate.

The Class of '32 figured equally prominent in athletics. More Sophomores received letters on the gridiron than ever before in the history of the school. Those to whom letters were awarded were: Phelan, Wilhelm, Kelly, Taylor, Beckwith, Bolger and Sprengard. In one of the football games thirteen Sophomores saw action. "Dutch" Bolger, acclaimed as one of the greatest athletes ever to enter the College and voted the College's favorite football star, was a Sophomore. John Nolan was a student manager. Next in order came basketball and baseball. Here the Sophomore Class again contributed a wealth of material. In basketball four Sophomores were on the regular quintet, Wilhelm, Bolger, Sack and Beckwith. On the diamond we found such stars as Kelly, Meiners, Wilhelm, Callahan, Beckwith, Murphy and Nolan. Paul "Foot" Hughes was a mainstay of the Xavier harriers. John Dreyer was also a member of the track team. The tennis team has in its roster Muehlenkamp, Scully, Murphy and Scott, all Sophomores.

Two Sophomore teams played for the championship of the Intramural Basketball League. The game resulted in a 14-12 victory for Captain Phelan's Mohawks over Captain Muehlenkamp's. Andy Schmidt was runner-up in the handball tournament.

Sophomore E

Besides being very active scholastically and athletically, it can be said that the class was a class of musicians. There were fifteen Sophomores in the Father Finn Clef Club. Three of these, Anton, O'Dowd and Insko, were soloists. Paul Desmond was business manager of the Club's annual spring concert, while "Lou" Meyer and "Dick" Schroeder arranged numerous concerts for the Club. John Kemme was a member of the string trio. Besides being a soloist, O'Dowd was also librarian of the Club. Many Sophomores were members of the College band, and at present are aiding in the formation of an orchestra at the College.

One task, or rather one series of tasks, that the Sophomore Class performed throughout the year is worthy of special mention. They were the official ushers of the College. Some twenty Sophomores ushered at the football games each Saturday. During the basketball season the field house was practically in charge of the Sophomores for they took care of both the gates and the ushering. Members of the class volunteered to usher at the Alumni lectures. They also volunteered to usher at the Commencement exercises.

The task of praising and complimenting the present Sophomore Class has indeed been very pleasant and we feel sure that the class will return in September to continue their unselfish work and devotion to their Alma Mater.

HARRY LANDENWITSCH
Freshman Class President

A generally unappreciated and difficult lot is that of the Freshman Class President. Strong must be the shoulders upon which the burdens of the position lie, for the man must lead his comrades through a troublesome and tortuous pathway, and carry a great amount of their loads, too. If he fails, he is unjustly condemned by his classmates; if he succeeds, it is taken as a matter of course.

The Class of 1933 was extremely fortunate in that they had in their midst a man of the caliber of Harry Landenwitsch. Not only did he demonstrate exceptional executive ability, but in his every move he was absolutely impartial, thinking not of himself, or of the welfare of any group within the class, but of the whole body. He was an invaluable aid to his class in its debut.

Landenwitsch prepared for St. Xavier at St. Xavier High School, where he was an outstanding student.

Freshman A-B

First Row—PRIESHOF, WINSTEL, KEARNEY, STADLER, REUTER, QUILL, REITZ, GINOCCHIO, KLONNE, McDERMOTT, BREARTON, CLEMONS, NURRE, BELL. Second Row—W. MORAN, SCHMITT, KIEFER, SPELLMIRE, McKENNA, BENS, DONOVAN, HARTINGS, SCHNEIDER, BUSE, IMBUS, STRATMAN, ED CLIFFORD, SULLIVAN. Third Row—FELIX, MEYER, McCORMACK, SCHOO, FREKING, MERCURIO, STEINKAMP, W. SCHMIDT, HUNKEMOELLER, M. CLEARY, G. GROOM, McNAUGHTON, DEWAN, BUETER, WAGNER, BRENNAN.

St. Xavier attracted to her portals in the fall of 1929 one of the largest Freshman classes that has yet been enrolled in the College. The sturdy young men of character and ambition were replicas of past Freshman groups and differed from by-gone yearlings only in numbers. The native strangeness which so characterizes every incoming class soon wore off, and once settled in their new environment, the Freshmen conducted their election. Harry Landenwitsch was elected president, and William Schmidt, Student Council representative.

Spirit began to make itself evident immediately after this important task was accomplished, and the Frosh conducted their first recognized activity of their college career on the afternoon of the first football game, when a balloon-parade was staged for the entertainment of the spectators. Parading past the crowded stadium, the bashful, yet earnest members of the class felt their first glow of pride at being students of St. Xavier.

Freshman representation at all College functions, dances and the like gave evidence that gradually they were becoming tried and true members of the undergraduate body. Then came the activities in which the members of the class as individuals were to carve their names on the pages of 1929. The football team first drew the attention of many. McPhail, Mc-

Freshman C-D

First Row—DOLLE, KEELEY, HIPPLE, JANSEN, GROENINGER, R. MORAN, RYAN, LANDENWITSCH, LAGEMAN, FARRELL, NEVIUS, NUGENT, HINTERSCHIED, GALVIN, KEMME. Second Row—BURLEY, HEATHERMAN, WILKEMEYER, TANCEY, KING, WALSH, CANNON, HUBER, CARROLL, DEHLINGER, BRILL, SEBASTIANI, ROLFES, MCFADDEN, CURRAN. Third Row—KLAIN, BURKHART, VESPER, WHARTON, ACKERMAN, A. MCGOWAN, WYNN, KRIEGER, JANZEN, LUX, FINN, KOCH, BURKE, SMITH. Fourth Row—ELBERT, SCHAFFNER, FREEMAN, GROOM, MCPHAIL, MOELLERING, LUEBBERS, SLATTERY, CORBETT, KNIERY, MEINERS, SIEFART, HINCKLEY, STUHLREYER.

Naughton, Slattery, Neiderlehner and Cannon were but few of the great number who showed promise for the ensuing three years.

In basketball, Corbett, Elbert, McNaughton, Stadler and Mercurio were outstanding. The spring football practices drew out all the Frosh candidates of the fall, and gave them the learning and skill which will stand them in good stead in 1930.

In the academic fields of the College, the Class of '33 immediately made their presence felt. The Poland Philopedian Society was besieged with Freshmen who showed, if not a skill in debating, at least a willingness to learn, which will materially aid the debating teams of the future. The innovation this year of having a representative Freshman Debating Team gave an impetus to oratory hitherto unheard of.

Journalism demanded the attentions of several members of the class and many contributions to the Naxerian News, The Athenaeum and THE MUSKETEER serve as examples of the excellence of their work. The Latin and English Intercollegiates saw innumerable Freshmen enter, and a unique distinction awaited the class, for John Winstel, after qualifying from St.

Freshman E

Xavier, was awarded third place in the finals of the contest. Such a high honor has never before been bestowed upon a Freshman.

The Junior Sodality was maintained at its usual standard of interest by the Class of '33. Under the capable direction of its prefects, Harry Landenwitsch, Robert Reitz and William Schmidt, the Sodality prospered and became an integral part in Freshman life. The other societies and clubs about the school received their quota of Freshman interest also, and the various functions of these groups were marked by names of the lowly Frosh.

There remain besides these the names of many unsung heroes—the boys who neither made a name for themselves in athletics nor distinguished themselves in their studies. They fulfilled the office of making the school a pleasant place to attend and were they to be missing tomorrow, a void would be left in the life of St. Xavier. For each and every class is made up of the hero, the friend, and the acquaintance, and the acquaintance today may be the friend of tomorrow.

The start made by the Freshmen of '29, the Seniors of '33, was an enviable one, and if the old adage, "Well begun is half done," is true, the future achievements of the Freshmen may even overshadow the splendid record of the Class of '30. The individualities of the class, the idiosyncracies of custom and manner, have been welded into a uniform body of ideas and ideals which can mean but one thing, the absolute success of the Class of '33 as a group.

Accounting IV

This marks the end of our four-year search for knowledge. Our education in accounting at St. Xavier is finished. At this time we are glad to realize that we have successfully completed our course. However, we regret the necessity of parting. We have formed associations here that we trust will continue when our school days are just a memory.

We have given our best to all the activities of the school. We are proud of our attendance record both at classes and social affairs. We started school four years ago with an idea of what was to come. Today we feel as though we have reaped the harvest of these years of work.

We are proud of the good fellowship shown by the class. A mere mention of our parties will bring a smile to any Senior. Though we say good-bye to one another as classmates, we stay together as friends.

The night of May 5th brought to a close the Fourth Year Accounting Class. All its members were unanimous in affirming that their mutual association was both pleasant and instructive, and that the kindly interest of Mr. Frank Crane during the first half, and Mr. William Moeller during the second half, as professors, deserves a vote of appreciation.

Accounting III

Accounting III may not develop from its membership a Robert H. Montgomery, but there is no doubt but that each member of this group has a much greater knowledge of accounting than when he entered in September. This has been the objective of most of the class, who, as a rule, are more concerned with the obtaining of a general acquaintance with the many phases of business, rather than a high degree of skill in some particular branch of accounting.

Our three years of close contact has cemented many friendships among us, and we look forward to another year of pleasant and profitable association.

Mr. Crane has been untiring in his auditing course in his efforts to develop our analytical potentialities. He has also impressed upon us that imagination, constructive thought and a high regard for his position of trust and responsibility are requisite in an auditor.

Mr. Moeller continually stressed the need for speed, accuracy and attention to detail in his accounting problems course. We feel sure that our training under him will greatly aid us in our business careers.

Accounting II

Sailing on the good ship "Ambition and Determination", we finally arrived at the second port on our journey to the distant goal, "Success."

On September 16, 1929, we docked at Port Sophomore and began at once to master the storms of Profit and Loss, Consolidated Statements, and the hurricanes of Balance Sheets.

After some eight months our skipper, Mr. Stanley Hittner, has placed his official stamp of approval upon our tasks and we are now eligible to resume our journey to Port Junior.

While at Port Sophomore we were fortunate in having Mr. Hittner as our teacher and through his interesting practical problems and his short lectures we were better able to master the subject. We take this means of thanking Mr. Hittner for the time and patience he devoted to us, and we assure him it was not spent in vain.

We feel that the Sophomore year has been very profitable both in knowledge gained and in friends made, and hope that in the fall when the skipper shouts, "All Aboard," we will be able to report, "All Hands on Deck."

Accounting I

It cannot be denied that this Freshman Class has been an outstanding one. In attendance and application its members have been, we believe, without comparison.

It has also had a hand in all school activities, and has endeavored to maintain a spirit of good fellowship at all times. This has resulted in some close and continued friendships.

Mr. Alfred E. Braun, its very able and beloved instructor, gave every ounce of himself in and out of the classroom in an effort to promote and encourage all things that would help the progress of his students. Each of them responded with his best efforts, and much progress was the result.

The Work Sheet, with its Trial Balance, Adjustments and Final Balance, seemed to defy the ability of all, but he bowed before the "charge this" and "credit that", and finally acknowledged that we were his masters.

Almost every student in the class has hopes of returning in September to continue his studies as a member of this enthusiastic unit of proto-accountants.

English II

Business English II realizes the truth of the proverb, "All good things come in small packages," for it is indeed small, but no one challenges its title, "The Best Class in the St. Xavier School of Commerce."

The first reason for our superiority is that Mr. Charles Purdy is our teacher. He also fits in the category of "small, but good". That he is recognized as master of English is proved by the fact that he also gives lectures over the radio on that subject.

Mr. Purdy's novel way of selecting his class reduced our numbers to a minimum on the first night of class. After this examination, however, we lost few students. All regulars progressed rapidly, and are anxiously waiting the opening of the next term.

English Literature

Being persons who are interested in life, we have always been interested in the novel—the picture of life. Thus, our study of English literature, dealing primarily with the novel, was the furtherance of an ideal, the materialization of a life-long ambition.

The anticipation with which we entered this class has not been disappointed. On the contrary, it has been more than realized. Our purpose, which was to be not only theoretically informed, but also to become thoroughly conversant with literature, has known fruition. We have come to know literature as the glorification of the commonplace. Far from shunning the classics, as we did heretofore, we now regard them as fast friends.

This transformation has been effected through the patient guidance of our professor and friend, Dr. James J. Young, who has justified with us his reputation as literary critic and authority. It is with sincere thanks to him, and with the consciousness of our greater fund of knowledge, that we bid farewell to the scholastic year 1929-30.

Effective Speaking

A class that is inspired with a desire to speak, pronounce and articulate properly must progress, and since it was the heart's desire of every student pictured above to make those ideals realities, Effective Speaking had a most successful year.

We understood, of course, that we could gain little without effort, and each of us strove always for self-improvement through diligent work, in and out of the classroom. These hours were not wasted, we have found, and our store of useful knowledge, will, we have no doubt, help us in our future dealings with our companions in the business and social worlds.

We are deeply indebted to Mr. Edward C. Roth for his untiring efforts to make his classes both pleasant and instructive. Not only does he have a rare knowledge of English, but he has the rarer knowledge of knowing how to impart it to others.

Economics III-IV

"Neither despise nor oppose what thou dost not understand. Refuse not be informed, for that shows pride or stupidity."—William Penn.

For another year we were fortunate in having as our instructor Mr. W. E. Chancellor. His wide experience, extensive travels and genial personality awaken in his students the added interest necessary to the study and enjoyment of Political Economy, a subject most of us had thought too abstract for practical application.

The student who is absent from one of Mr. Chancellor's classes is neglecting an opportunity to increase not only his knowledge of Economics, but his general knowledge as well. Just a chance remark of Mr. Chancellor's has enlightened us on some of the strange phenomena which we might not have discovered even after diligent research.

Among the many things we have learned is how little we had really known of this world we live in.

During the past year we were taken over three more phases of Economics—Commercial Geography, Marketing and Industrial Organization, and are becoming more and more hungry for a thorough knowledge of what makes the wheels go round.

Economics II

In the scholastic year just completed Economics II finished two courses. Principles of Money and Banking was taken in the first semester, and Credits and Collections in the second. There were many difficulties, but these were made much easier by the capable teaching of Mr. Wirt D. Hord, instructor in Money and Banking, and Mr. Charles Durrett, instructor in Credits and Collections. The class wishes to thank expressly these men for so painstakingly endeavoring to give each student the full benefit of their knowledge and skill. It shall try to prove to them that their efforts have not been in vain.

This class has been fortunate enough to stay intact for the past two years. It has spent many pleasant evenings discussing and solving the many problems it has encountered. After looking over its past record, and noting what rapid strides it has made towards the goal set at the start, the class hopes to turn out en masse in September, and thus to continue its studies in the science of economics.

Economics I

Last September, many accountants, realizing the importance of the study of Economics, enrolled in this class. They applied themselves from the beginning diligently and persistently in order to acquire the knowledge which they knew would be of great value in their daily activities.

Although at first the students were baffled by the vexing problems of production, consumption, distribution, utility and value, uses of money, the basis of banking, and other subjects which were thoroughly discussed, they soon dispelled their fear and overcame the various difficulties which confronted them.

We cannot emphasize too strongly the gratitude we owe our teacher, Mr. Charles O'Connor, who, with due interest and an enticing method, presented the science of Economics to us. His practical and theoretical knowledge helped us to work out the essentials. We appreciate his conscientious work.

Commercial Law I

The students of Commercial Law I agree that the past year has been most inspiring and interesting. After months of hard struggle and striving to reach the pinnacle, our ambition was realized.

We have acquainted ourselves with the principles and necessary elements of a contract which can be enforced without breach or suit for damages. We have learned the limited liability, stability, and the continuous life of a corporation.

Much praise and gratitude is due to Mr. Lawrence Kyte, our patient and capable instructor who, with his gift of knowing how to impart knowledge to others, made the class very informative and pleasant. We were all able to master the subjects without difficulty after his explanations.

With the closing of this scholastic year, let us hope that our next year of Commercial Law will be just as inspiring, instructive and enticing as the past year has been to all of us who participated in this study.

Advertising I and II

Advertising I-II feels that it is only repeating a saying that it is classic in the night school when it modestly states that it is renowned as being the most energetic and ambitious class in this department of the College. Intelligence and ability are the outstanding characteristics of the members of the class, which has never in its two years of unity failed to make notable progress.

The course given this year was as comprehensive as possible in an evening class. The class was fortunate in that it had as its instructor a man who is recognized as being an expert in the advertising field, Mr. Eli Cohen. Mr. Cohen was indefatigable in his efforts to make his lectures as interesting and instructive as possible. His clear and concise way of expressing himself, as well as the vast fund of knowledge that he possesses, makes it almost impossible that one could attend his classes and not be greatly benefited thereby.

It is with the deepest regret that Advertising I-II bids farewell to St. Xavier, but this emotion is tinged with the hope that we shall perhaps be able to bring the College further glory by our successes in our lofty profession.

Bookkeeping

The knowledge that the business world always needs capable and efficient bookkeepers was the clarion call that summoned us to this class last September. Entrepreneurs constantly urge those of mathematical talent to become familiar with the meaning of the entries in ledgers and balance sheets, for they insist that only those who peruse similar tomes and documents with understanding can ever hope for complete commercial success.

It was not long after our class had been organized that we mastered a few of the principles of preliminary accounting. Regular attendance and diligent attention enabled us to progress rapidly. Confidence has replaced fear, and no longer do we consider this most interesting subject a frightful ogre. Every entry that we encounter is more interesting to us than a novel, for we know that many strange stories are contained in them.

To our patient professor, Mr. William T. Burns, the class is deeply indebted. His cheerful manner was an inspiration, and his words of encouragement helped us surmount all obstacles.

Commercial Law III-IV

Judges Walter A. Ryan and Joseph P. Goodenough had the difficult task of imparting to us a knowledge of the law of Real Property, Bailments and Sales.

Full credit is due to these well-liked jurists for the thoroughness with which they have covered these branches of the law in the limited time allotted to them.

To our classmates, the Seniors, with whom Commercial Law III has been closely associated for the past year, we offer congratulations. May their future efforts be crowned by all manner of success—a success which four years of hard work so richly deserves.

History of Philosophy

For the first time in recent years a course in History of Philosophy was offered, and the fine enrollment and attendance showed how well it was appreciated. Under the instruction of Rev. Remi Bellperch, S.J., the class studied the history of thought from Aristotle to the modern philosophers.

In a day where philosophy is being discussed on street corners, and everyone has set ideas on metaphysical topics, it is vitally important to have a good foundation on such subjects: The History of Philosophy class received not only a good foundation, but by their own efforts built a handsome superstructure above it. No new philosophies were evolved, but the interpretations of the old philosophers was gotten and appreciated.

Father Bellperch was untiring in his efforts to clear up any cloudy point of philosophy, and the individual attention received enabled each and every member of the class to realize just how the evolution of thought was brought about.

The year has been one very well-spent, and the majority of the group are returning next year for a more learned and thorough discussion of philosophy.

Logic

One of the smallest classes in the College of Commerce is the Logic Class, but this makes it none the less valuable. For in this day of fallacious arguments, a course in logic, the fundamentals of clear thinking, is indispensable to the prospective business man or woman. The training given by the course of study does much to break down the tendency of the mind to be swayed by prejudice and personal feeling.

Rev. Murtha J. Boylan, S.J., was the guiding light of the class, and much credit must be given to him for his untiring efforts toward the members of the course. His knowledge of the fundamentals of Logic made the course extremely interesting, as well as beneficial. The foundations received this year will aid the various members of the class in their future studies of philosophic subjects.

Half of the year was spent on the theory of correct thinking, and on the rules of logic, while the other half was spent in learning to apply these rules to practical cases. Consequently, the course was very profitable.

Psychology

The Rev. Michael Maher, S.J., D.Litt., M.A., whose profound and exhaustive work, "Psychology: Empirical and Rational," was the text used in our course, says: "The subject-matter of our science is the soul or mind of man. The psychologist investigates those phenomena which we call sensations, preceptions, thoughts, volitions, and emotions; he analyzes them, classifies them, and seeks to reduce them to the smallest number of fundamental activities. He studies the nature of their exercise, and the laws which govern their operations, and he endeavors to enunciate a body of general truths which will accurately describe their chief and most characteristic features. But Psychology cannot rest here. Whether it wishes it or not, Psychology is inevitably a branch of Philosophy."

It was then in its general significance as a branch of Philosophy and not from the particular point of view of the pathologist, psychiatrist or psycho-analyst, that we approached our subject. In the first part of Empirical Psychology, the study of sensuous life, the clarifying lectures of our instructor, the Rev. Murtha J. Boylan, S.J., touched on the senses, the development of sense perception, education of the senses, imagination, memory and mental association, sensuous appetite and movement, and feelings of pleasure and pain. In our study of the other section of Empirical Psychology, rational life, we discussed the intellect as distinguished from sense, the origin of intellectual ideas, judgment and reasoning, attention and apperception, development of intellectual cognition, rational appetency, free will and determinism and the emotions.

In Rational Psychology we endeavored to penetrate to the source of the phenomena of consciousness, and sought to learn what may be gathered by the light of reason regarding the nature, origin and destiny of the human soul.

Members of the class, who have been together during these exhilarating months of delving into the mysteries of the mind of man, will not soon forget the enjoyments of study and companionship that they have shared with each other and their professor.

Law II

While records disclose that we are pioneers in the forward movement of the new St. Xavier College of Law, since a variety of circumstances combined to make it possible for us to become students here at the time that rehabilitation was being carried forward in the department, we pride ourselves upon the fact that although the St. Xavier College of Law has a new vitality, a sort of youthful daring, at the same time it is supported by century-old experience and un-discriminating encouragement.

Few institutions have bulked so large in the affairs of Cincinnati as has St. Xavier College, and the new law department is an integral factor in this ever-increasing service to the community. Few have ever succeeded in interpreting or explaining satisfactorily the service that is being rendered year after year, and it is not our intent to so detail it. But perchance we are too concerned with the greatness of our school and not enough concerned with the assimilation of a certain amount of the law.

The retiring portion of our nature deters us in assuming that we possess qualities which will fit us to appear before the bar in later years with credit to ourselves and distinction to our Alma Mater. It is our wish to do so, of course, but human error must be accounted in the reckoning. It is our sincere opinion that we have derived considerable benefit from our courses during the scholastic year just closed. We have striven to meet the demands placed upon us by those who are directing our law school destinies. We have maintained a hearty interest in the affairs of St. Xavier College, and in each other. We have cooperated with our professors and the executives of our department. We advance into the future with confidence.

Law I

Our first year in the St. Xavier College of Law has been a pleasant experience. We have found the study of law most interesting and magnetic; we feel assured that our time was well spent, that certain beneficial results will accrue from our attendance, and that the foundation for our advanced study has been securely placed.

We assembled last September with a certain amount of trepidation and misgivings. We were not so satisfied in our own minds as to whether we really wished to study law. We had, of course, discussed the matter with others. Many from whom we sought counsel were well established in business and had found the need of legal knowledge in that connection. Still, we were not so sure that it was really worth the expension of energy which we knew it would require. But we are now satisfied with our decision and believe that we have profited.

While attending classes we have learned that constant study and effort are required if one is to succeed in any avocation, and particularly in the legal profession. In the event that we enter actively into the profession, and some of us most certainly will, there will be much to learn with respect to pleading and practice, and matters of law which necessarily cannot be covered during school hours; in addition to the time required in becoming acquainted and establishing a clientele.

Tritley, we were not bookworms during the scholastic year just closed. We managed to get away from studies from time to time and thus not only increased our efficiency and intensified our application, but made the work more enjoyable. We are deeply grateful to our professors during the year for their very courteous and very painstaking efforts in our behalf. We shall be happy to take our place as Sophomores, with the knowledge that our school is equipped in every respect to give us a thorough training in the law.

Alumna! Organizations

Alumni Association

The St. Xavier College Alumni Association is composed of men who unstintingly give their moral and material support to the College at all times. The tireless efforts of this group, coupled with the scholastic and athletic success of the student body, have succeeded in making St. Xavier nationally renowned. A great share of the progress made by the College during the last decade is directly attributable to the members of the Alumni Association, both individually and collectively. Loyalty to their Alma Mater has caused these men to contribute generously to the establishment of the various units which comprise the magnificent new St. Xavier. Several of the buildings on the St. Xavier campus are permanent monuments to the generosity of the Alumni. Science Hall, the Library Building, and the Field House owe their existence either in whole or in part to the aid of the Alumni. The Stadium, the recent addition to the campus, was made possible by the donations of former Xavier students, supplemented by the generous aid of other friends of the College.

The moral support of the successful men who comprise the Alumni Association of St. Xavier College has in no small way contributed to the expansion and development of the College. It has caused other influential men to become interested in the progress of St. Xavier and its students, and has helped to cause the marvelous increase in the enrollment which is now limited only by the capacity of the facilities of the College. The success of St. Xavier men in competing with graduates of other colleges has brought their school before the eyes of the American public. Their loyalty in attributing a great part of their success to their Alma Mater has redounded both to their own credit and to that of St. Xavier.

Alumni activity is manifested in the Xavier Foundation, the annual Alumni Banquet, the Alumni Lectures, and the Homecoming Day programs. Interest in the welfare of the students and in the progress of the College causes the Alumni to spare themselves no trouble and expense when planning and effecting the betterment of St. Xavier. Personal interests and advancement are subjugated to the glorification of their Alma Mater.

The Junior and Senior classes have been endowed through the generosity of Rev. William J. Poland, S.J., a member of the Class of '87. This, with the invaluable aid of other Alumni, has enabled many students to finish their courses, who otherwise would have had to discontinue without having obtained their degrees. The Alumni body encourages and assists the students by its presence at oratorical contests, debates, concerts, and dramatic performances. Members of the Alumni Association also help enliven student meetings and rallies by their inspiring talks.

The Alumni Association, through the Athletic Council, has made famous St. Xavier's athletic prowess. The success of the Musketeers in their competition with the representatives of other institutions having much larger enrollments than that of St. Xavier is largely due to the tireless efforts of the Alumni Association.

For current year, the Alumni Association elected as its president Mr. J. J. Grogan, of the Class of '08. Through the indefatigable efforts of Mr. Grogan, the Association enjoyed one of the most successful years in its history. Mr. Grogan is now engaged in supervising plans for extensive activities of the Alumni Association during the centennial celebration of next year.

Xavier Foundation

WILLIAM E. FOX
President

St. Xavier College has made wonderful progress in its building activities within the last few years. It has seen built Elet Hall—the first unit of a series of dormitories, the Library Building, the huge Gymnasium and Field House, the Stadium, the Biology Building and a magnificent entrance to the campus. This wonderful advance would be remarkable for even a wealthy, endowed institution, but it is all the more surprising in view of the fact that the College is not heavily endowed, but must depend in large part for the funds necessary to its development on public-spirited citizens. It is due in the main to the tireless zeal of the organization known as the Xavier Foundation that St. Xavier College has been able to continue and progress; for it is this body that carries on the difficult task of supervising the building and endowment of the College.

The Xavier Foundation numbers some forty members. Its membership is not limited to the alumni alone; but constitutes both alumni and those patrons and friends of education who join them in the unselfish work of bringing the College "to the full fruition of its possibilities". Not a little credit for the wonderful esprit de corps so typical of this body is due to Mr. William E. Fox, its president. The greatest strides in the history of St. Xavier have been made during his several years as Chairman of the Xavier Foundation Committee.

It is to be regretted that the Xavier Foundation has been forced to lose three of its most valued members through death within the past year. The names of Sir Richard Crane, Louis E. Levassor and Andrew Rohan, however, have created immortality for themselves in the College that owes so much to them and to those other men of the Xavier Foundation.

Student Organizations

Student Council

EDMUND D. DOYLE
President

The Student Council is a governing group composed of fourteen members chosen from the undergraduate body of the liberal arts department of St. Xavier College. It is composed of five Seniors, four Juniors, three Sophomores, and two Freshmen. Thus, the upperclassmen, who are better versed in the traditions, customs, and ideals of the College, form the majority of the organization. The members of Student Council are, moreover, the recognized leaders in student life. Under the guiding hand of Rev. Daniel M. O'Connell, S.J., Dean of the College of Liberal Arts, they enact student regulations and offer suggestions for the general good of the College.

The principal function of Student Council is to be the intermediary for the Faculty and the student body. Formed as it is of leaders, it is admirably suited to shape student opinion and to mediate between scholar and teacher. Evidence to the fact that it has succeeded in this respect is the excellent understanding between the professors and students of St. Xavier.

Besides bringing about a closer union between the Faculty and the student body, it aims to stimulate the students to support all activities, whether they be academic, athletic, social or dramatic. It aids Rev. John J. Sullivan, director of the Union House, in his work, and this year sponsored a dance to raise funds for some necessary improvements to this student center.

Under the leadership of President Edmund D. Doyle, the Student Council has done its utmost to keep alive the true Musketeer spirit of "All for one and one for all".

Pi Alpha Mu

LOUIS G. BOEH

JOHN COOK

EDMUND D. DOYLE

JOHN K. MUSSIO

Since its foundation in the year 1926, the Pi Alpha Mu honorary fraternity of St. Xavier College has been the goal for all students seeking recognition of their academic and scholastic achievements. This fraternity holds no meetings and has no social purpose; it is purely honorary. Yet, because membership in it signifies the performance of some notable or continuous service to the College in fields other than athletic, the student meriting election to the Pi Alpha Mu enjoys a prestige that no other fraternity can confer.

The Pi Alpha Mu is the only fraternity officially recognized by the College. The Dean of the College of Liberal Arts is ex-officio president of the organization. Membership in the Pi Alpha Mu is open only to those undergraduates in the Liberal Arts section who during their college course have been active in college journalism and literary work, who have won the oratorical and debating contests or, in some other way, have taken a prominent role in academic activities. No student, however, is eligible for membership who has failed to maintain an average of "B" from Freshman to Senior year, and who is not enrolled as a member of the Poland Philopedian Society. Further requirements include notable and continuous work performed in one or more of the following activities: THE MUSKETEER, The Xaverian News, The Athenaeum, The Varsity Debating Team, The Masque Society, or The Dante Club. Such service in accordance with the rules of admission to the Pi Alpha Mu must be of at least two years duration, or, if only one year, it must be in the capacity of editor-in-chief or business manager of one of the College publications.

Pi Alpha Mu

R. EDWARD TEPE   MALVIN H. UCHTMAN   WILLIAM J. WISE   ALBERT J. WORST

Students winning either the Washington Oratorical Contest or the Verkamp Debate are also eligible to membership, as are those who secure mention in the finals of the English or Latin Intercollegiate Contests at St. Louis. Admission to the Pi Alpha Mu is open likewise to any who succeed in maintaining a general average of "A" throughout the entire college course.

This survey of the requirements, brief though it is, is sufficient to show that election to the Pi Alpha Mu is obtainable only by such undergraduates as are willing to make special sacrifices in the interests of St. Xavier. Not every student can meet these requirements. That in the past three years only nineteen new members have been elected to the fraternity is ample proof of this statement.

A gold key is the token of membership in the Pi Alpha Mu. This key is presented to the successful candidate at the close of his Senior year, when the new members are announced on Commencement Day.

In addition to the graduates of the present year who merited the key, John K. Mussio, by reason of his studies and achievements in literature and his activities in St. Xavier, was awarded membership.

The Dante Club

The past year has been the most active the Dante Club has ever had. Under the very capable management of its president, Gale Grogan, it has expanded its program of lectures to numerous out-of-the-city places. Schools, convents and other organizations in the neighboring cities have capitulated to its highly entertaining and instructive lectures. Almost all schools that heard lectures asked for return engagements. The Club has been in existence for seven years, but never before has it been so active as during the present scholastic year. It climaxed its splendid achievements by delivering the last of the Alumni Lectures in the College auditorium.

The Dante Club originally started its program with "The Divine Comedy", and took its name from the immortal author of this famous poem. The initial lecture was written by the original members of the Club and is the product of such finished workmanship that it is still used. Slides which are replicas of Doré's exquisite illuminations, accompany the lectures.

In recent years the Club has added several new and attractive talks to its repertoire. The greatest of the masters of the English language and the man who is generally admitted to represent the high-water mark in world literature—William Shakespeare—was the subject of one of the new lectures.

Many of the places at which the Club was booked for return engagements specified this lecture. The Dante Club is acting as the precursor to modern educational methods in this talk, for in many schools throughout the country this identical method is being introduced in the teaching and study of the illustrious Bard of Avon.

The Crusades form the second of the new lectures. They furnish a highly interesting, romantic and colorful subject which is very attractively presented by the Club. The lecture starts with the ultimate causes of these great movements, then proceeds to the proximate causes, gives a history of each individual expedition, and concludes by illustrating the effect they had on the world.

The Rev. John J. Wynne, S.J., is author of the final Club talk: "The Jesuit Martyrs of North America." This is the sole speech not written by a member of the Club. The author is thoroughly conversant with his subject and has an exhaustive knowledge of the sources. His style is vivid and pictorial and has a certain spell-binding power which enthalls the hearer. The slides accompanying this lecture tell of the hardships of the early missionaries, the tortures they suffered at the hands of the men they tried to convert, and the final success which crowned their efforts.

The Club in concluding its yearly program will pass on to others the task of maintaining the high standard it has set. A heavy blow will be sustained in the loss of its very capable president through graduation, but the path he has marked out will serve to guide the footsteps of his successors, so the organization should continue to advance from success to success.

The officers and members of the Club follow: Gale Grogan, president; F. Oliver Steins, business manager; Rev. J. V. Usher, S.J., moderator; Louis G. Boeh, E. Vonder Haar, Albert Muckerheide, John Anton, Edmund Doyle, William Wise and John Cook.

Poland Philopedian Society

FRANCIS J. VAUGHAN
President

REV. PAUL J. SWEENEY, S.J.
Moderator

KILIAN KIRSCHNER
Secretary

The official debating organization of St. Xavier is known as the Poland Philopedian Society, in honor of its founder, Rev. William F. Poland, S.J. As is the case in most elections about the campus, the elections for the offices of the Philopedian was held at the close of last year. Francis J. Vaughan, who had served in the capacity of secretary for several years, was elected president; Louis G. Boeh, vice-president; Kilian Kirschner, secretary; Edward Vonder Haar, treasurer, and Albert Worst, chairman of committee on debates. The Society was also favored in having Rev. Paul J. Sweeney, S.J., as its moderator.

It is under the auspices of the Poland Philopedian Society, which convenes during the scholastic year on each Monday afternoon, that all debates are held. Membership in the organization is a prerequisite for admission into the Pi Alpha Mu honorary fraternity, as well as for participation in the annual Verkamp Debate and the Washington Oratorical Contest.

The weekly meetings of the society are marked by a formal debate between two teams composed of two members each. The speakers are allowed ten minutes for their constructive speeches and eight minutes for rebuttals.

It was formerly the custom of the society to appoint three of its members as judges, but this year the precedent yielded to the critic judge system. One man renders the decision, criticises the participants, and names the best speaker of the day. The subject of the debate is then thrown open to the house for discussion. Interest runs so high that often a motion to adjourn is not in order till very late in the day.

At the beginning of the season the chairman of the committee on debates posts a list of the various topics for the year. Each member of the society thus receives ample opportunity to prepare his subject and to display his forensic talent. The organization thus offers encouragement to individual expression. It enables one to sharpen his wits by rubbing them with those of his fellows and affords excellent practice for independent thinking. It serves as a natural supplement to the logic class which trains the student in the correct modes of thinking and encourages him to sound out fallacies in his opponent's arguments.

But the rebuttals in particular are of most benefit to the student. For in them he must accustom himself to think on his feet as the saying is, and to defend his own viewpoint. He thus develops not only the art of clear thinking and logical speaking, but the art of fluent delivery as well. His participation in the Philopedian Society's skirmishes is in reality a preparation for the greater battle of life. And the individual who gives his all to his debates will go forward to the greater struggle not in fear and trembling, but with justified confidence in his own powers.

It is perhaps only just to mention the fact that many of the outstanding lawyers in the country have come from the Poland Philopedian Society of St. Xavier College. Indeed the number of the Cincinnati Bar whose activities in the debate organization acted as precursor to their resplendent achievements in the legal profession is legion. Many of the Philopedians who intend to enter law college come to St. Xavier for the express purpose of obtaining experience in the society as a part of their pre-legal training. It is of invaluable aid to them.

Masque Society

WILLIAM J. WISE
President

J. K. MUSSIO
Moderator

EDWIN HEILKER
Secretary

The Masque Society is now in the eighth year of its existence. It was organized, in 1925, "to foster the undergraduate dramatic, literary and musical interests of the College and to promote social intercourse among the members." The Society, be it said, has fully earned the right to continue its existence under this charter. This is especially true of the Masque Society of this year which, in a sense, completely reorganized, has quite successfully furthered the growth of the Little Theater Movement at St. Xavier College.

Those friends of the College who recall the scanty repertoire of the Masque Society in past years are astonished by the variety and range of the plays presented this year. Beginning with the production aptly entitled, "The Flying Start," the Masque Society passed to Shakespearean drama, then to lighter classical pieces, later to a satiric revue illustrating the foibles of certain students and professors, and wound up the season with a three-act play. When compared with the one or two dramatic undertakings that characterized the Masque Society's annual activity formerly, this year's progress is an achievement indeed.

The Masque Society, in accord with its policy of producing at least one classical play each year, presented the "Taming of the Shrew", thus adding another play to its Shakespearean repertoire which has included "Hamlet", "The Merchant of Venice," and "The Comedy of Errors". After this serious work the Society turned to several one-act plays. In accord with a new policy, undergraduate members of the Masque Society directed these lighter pieces. At the Campus Theater it gave Lady Gregory's "The Rising of the Moon", Lord Dunsany's "A Night in an Inn", and Clare Comer's "The Robbery". But the most popular presentation given by the Masque Society was the all-St. Xavier Revue, "Campus Riots," sponsored by Mr. John King Mussio, the moderator of the Society.

It is impossible here to go into further detail concerning these productions. Accounts of them may be found elsewhere in this book.

This year's activity of the Masque Society definitely indicates that the Little Theater Movement, already so popular among other colleges and universities, has secured a hold at St. Xavier. The movement was initiated last year, but it gained no real impetus until the present year. The wealth of dramatic talent so pronounced in past endeavors of the Masque Society indicated the advisability of not confining this talent to merely one production each year. Therefore, the Campus Little Theater was begun. A temporary stage has already been erected in the Union House, but plans have been made for a more pretentious theater when the Society secures the necessary funds.

The present personnel of the Masque Society has by its splendid activity established a new standard of excellence for future members. There, however, remains no doubt in the mind of any member of the College but that this tradition will become an even finer one in succeeding years.

The officers of the Masque Society during the year 1929-30 were: William J. Wise, president; Edwin Heilker, secretary, and John Anton, chairman of the Play-Reading Committee.

Senior Sodality

EDWARD GEISER

EDWARD TEPE
2nd Prefect

ROBERT EGBERS
3rd Prefect

The Senior Sodality occupies the highest position in the roster of the organizations of the College. It is the one organization which has as its primary purpose the enlivening of faith in the student body. It fosters in the student a love of the Blessed Virgin and thereby exercises a powerful influence on St. Xavier spiritual and religious life. The success of the Sodality demonstrates the great interest taken by Xavier students in the furtherance of the cause of religion, both in themselves and in their fellow-man. Attendance was not obligatory, but members strove mightily to be present at as many meetings as possible, with the result that the several whose records were perfect were closely followed by a great number who missed but once or twice.

The activities of the Sodality are many and varied. On each Friday the Office of the Sodality of the Immaculate Conception is recited. This is followed by a short talk by the moderator, Rev. Edward J. Morgan, S.J. These lectures, which are apt, to the point, and full of zeal, are an inspiration to the sodalists. Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament is given the First Friday of each month.

The Sodality operates through the Central Committee, which is a combination of the six special committees: Membership, Eucharistic, Mission, Publicity, League of the Sacred Heart, and Literature. The Catholic Students Mission Crusade was joined this year as a special section of the Mission Committee, which sent financial aid to our adopted missionary, Rev. John Foster, S.J., who is located at Patna, India. It also sent clothing to Rev. John J. Brennan, S.J., to aid him in his mission work in North Carolina. Father Brennan was formerly a professor at St. Xavier. The Publicity Committee maintained a bulletin board in the Mary Lodge Reading Room.

On the anniversary of the canonization of St. Francis Xavier the Sodality completed the Novena of Grace, made in his honor. Following the custom of past years, a Guard of Honor was maintained before the altar of the Blessed Virgin during the month of May, and the Sodality received Holy Communion on the First Friday of that month.

The organization extended its influence even beyond the College walls. Several meetings of the Central Committees of the various sodalities of the colleges, high schools and academies of Cincinnati and vicinity were held under its auspices, and at all gatherings the St. Xavier Sodality was the recognized leader. Several of the officers were particularly active in presenting the achievements of the St. Xavier unit and made a favorable impression upon all those who heard them. The Senior Sodality is well represented among the delegates chosen at the April meeting of the Cincinnati sodalities to attend the Catholic Leadership Convention, which is to be held at Chicago in June.

Under the leadership of the prefects, Edward Geiser, Edward Tepe and Robert Egbers, and the moderator, Father Morgan, the Sodality passed a very successful year. It endeavored always to keep alive the traditions of the antecedent sodalities in promoting a fervent devotion to the Mother of God. Its members were outstanding in both scholastic and athletic endeavor.

Moderator   1st Prefect   3rd Prefect   2nd Prefect

The Junior Sodality fills a place in the College which no other organization could. Through it every Freshman is taught from his very first days at college to love and revere Our Blessed Mother. The Sodality instills in him a respect for womanhood, with Mary as the ideal, and thus imprints upon him a mark which will last during his whole lifetime. Sodality members are exemplary students, as a rule, and their conduct is marked by a gentlemanly reserve that makes them stand head and shoulders above the rest of the student body. Manly devotion and a lively spirit of piety are stressed by the Sodality, with the result that the good influence of the religious training received by the students is the beneficiary of a powerful aid.

The weekly procedure of the meetings includes the recitation of the Rosary, the Office of the Immaculate Conception, and a brief talk by Rev. John J. Sullivan, S.J., the moderator. These short sermons include a series on "Character Building", which are an invaluable aid to the student in solving the problems of life, and inspire him with a love for truth and right living.

The Sodality held a reception on the feast of the Immaculate Conception. More than sixty new members were admitted to the society on this occasion. Special devotions were conducted during May and the lenten season. The officers of the Junior Sodality were:

Clef Club

DONALD McHALE
President

RICHARD FLUKE
Director

AL KEMME
Secretary

The Clef Club of the scholastic year of 1929-30 marks the culmination of the most successful season the Father Finn Clef Club has attained since its foundation in 1926. Although the Clef Club has always had the reputation of being one of the most active organizations on the campus, it has broadened and developed considerably in the past year. Moreover, it has succeeded not only in arousing the interest of the student body, but has also received favorable attention throughout Cincinnati and adjacent cities.

The membership of the Club at present numbers about forty. Mr. Richard Fluke, of the faculty of the College of Music, is director. Mr. Fluke has been a member of the American Opera Company and was soloist with the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra. His ability as a vocalist and choral director has won for him a wide-spread reputation in the city and his efforts are appreciated by the Clef Club members who respond whole-heartedly to his training.

Mr. John K. Mussio, faculty moderator, has succeeded in injecting some of his enthusiasm into the Club members and was responsible for the great activity of the organization. He was ably seconded by Donald McHale, president, and Al Kemme, secretary. Richard O'Dowd is librarian, and Charles Schierman, the accompanist.

The Club's latest innovation is student directing. The policy of allowing the student to direct some of the rehearsals and minor concerts has proved very successful. It affords the student musical training and promotes initiative.

The numerous concerts given by the Club this season required an extensive repertoire. As a result the rather limited type of choral compositions sung in former years has broadened considerably and now includes four-part choruses ranging from sixteenth century compositions of Palestrina to negro spirituals. A violin trio, composed of Al Kemme, Joseph Petranka and John Kemme, presented several interesting numbers during the year. The vocal soloists of the Club are John Anton and Richard O'Dowd; the instrumental soloists are Joseph Petranka, Charles Schierman and Al Kemme.

First Row—DESMOND, ANTON, McHALE, MR. MUSSIO, MR. FLUKE, A. KEMME, GRUBER, REUTER, CLINES. Second Row—PETRANKA, BROWN, SCHIRMAN, SCULLY, ROMER, MARTIN, KIRSCHNER, DAUGHERTY, SCHMIDT, HEATHERMAN, MEYER, DRYER. Third Row—HERRMANN, BROWN, LENTZ, MUEHLENKAMP, J. KEMME, O'DOWD, ADAMS, SCHROEDER, ROTH, SNYDER.

On October 27, 1929, the Club opened the season with a concert at Madison, Indiana, under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus of that city. The next important event on the social calendar was the concert given at the Good Samaritan Hospital, on December 14. On the 15th of the same month the singers appeared at the Sinton Hotel in a major concert given for the benefit of Rev. Warren C. Lilly's Lecture Course.

Since the first of the year 1930, the Club has been busy fulfilling a round of engagements. In February the College of Mount St. Joseph was visited. March witnessed successive triumphs at the Villa Madonna Academy, Covington, Ky.; St. Anthony's Church, Bellevue, Ky.; St. Patrick's day was a crowded one with two appearances; one at the Ladies' Irish Fellowship, and the other at the Men's Irish Fellowship. During April, Regina High School, Norwood, Ohio; the Church of the Nativity, Cincinnati, Ohio; the Notre Dame Academy, Covington, Ky., were visited.

The evening of May 8 brought with it the Annual Spring Concert of the organization. The Hotel Sinton Ballroom was the scene of this last triumph of the scholastic year. Over five hundred lovers of music and friends of the College came to hear the 1930 swan song of the Musketeer Melody Makers. Newspaper critics highly commended the well-balanced program and the masterful rendition of the numerous difficult numbers contained in it. The Clef Club has not been behind the march of progress at St. Xavier. It has ever been in the forefront of activity and the achievements of the past year can always be referred to as the acme of success.

Musketeer Band

BILL HAAS
Drum Major

The Band showing the fruits of Frank B. O'Dowd's careful development of its talents entered the fourth year of its existence and exemplified that old and time-honored phrase about being "bigger and better" than ever. Recognized as one of the most distinctive organizations of the College, the Band has become firmly entrenched as another integral unit of the College system. Whether marching down the field to the tune of spirited strains, or awaiting the signal for musical applause for a well-executed play, its members by their ready willingness and spontaneous enthusiasm manifested a loyalty to their Alma Mater that is seldom equalled by any other activity of the College.

Well trained and well drilled, the Band members in their chic blue and white uniforms time and again won the whole-hearted applause of their audiences as they paraded the length of Corcoran Field playing the College songs and other selections. Nor was their fame confined to local audiences, for selections by the Band were broadcast as part of the program of every home game, and many letters were received from all parts of the country attesting to the excellence of their renditions.

When rooters were being solicited to accompany the football team to Cleveland, the Band was among the first to sign the dotted line, and was the one College group to be fully represented. Once there, it did everything within its power to make up for the loss of the game, and by its meritorious performance did much to soften the sting of the defeat.

On all occasions the Band owed in great part its popularity to the amusing antics of its inimitable drum-major, Bill Haas, who, with his dignified stride and somber mien, strutted before it with all the grace and magnificence of the cockiest peacock. He was easily the "cynosure" of all eyes and tended to overshadow the Band itself. After seeing Bill's sure eye and steady hand coordinate so well in throwing the baton over the goal-post, many visiting drum-majors walked off the field in despair.

Critics were unanimous in pronouncing the St. Xavier Band as equal to any similar outfit in the State and as comparing favorably with bands all over the country, even with the larger ones of the leading colleges and universities. St. Xavier is fortunate in having the Band that it has, and every effort is made to maintain it as it is at present—a band to be proud of.

The Heidelberg Club of St. Xavier College is the youngest organization on the campus. It was begun only last year under the sponsorship of Dr. Paul J. Menge, Professor of German.

The purposes of the Club are social and informative as well as cultural. Its roster consists of those who desire to further their knowledge of Germany, its language, customs, literature and art. Since membership is wholly optional, it necessarily follows that only those who are really interested belong to the Heidelberg Club.

Meetings are held at irregular intervals and are attended by enthusiastic audiences. At these meetings a program dealing with a particular phase of the language or culture of Germany is carried out. During the past year the members have been entertained with lectures and slides. Either Dr. Menge, who is the faculty adviser of the group, or one of the members themselves, officiated at these meetings.

At the outset of the year, Dr. Menge announced that the winner of the Annual German Prize would be determined by a German oratorical contest and exhorted the members of the Heidelberg Club to strive for perfection along German forensic lines.

Several films, dealing with German life and institutions, have been shown at the meetings under the arrangement of the adviser. Last summer some of the members made a trip to Europe under the supervision of Dr. Menge, and their descriptions of the things they saw on the Continent, provided much entertainment for their fellow members.

James Shea is the president of the organization, Edward Geiser, vice-president; Jerome Luebbers, corresponding secretary; Robert Elsbrock, secretary, and Kilian Kirschner, treasurer.

Chess Club

In the past year the St. Xavier Chess Club was reorganized and conducted its second annual tournament. The first was held during the year 1927-1928, and was won by William O'Donnell. The tournament this year lasted two and one-half months and involved over twenty students. Because of the number of contestants the committee of awards gave four prizes. These were merited as follows:

First Prize—A Wahl Set and Bronze Medal, to Louis G. Boeh, '30. Second Prize—A Gold and Silver Pen, engraved with his name, to Robert Maggini, '32. Third Prize—A Bronze Chess Medal, to John Anton, '32. Fourth Prize—A Boxwood Chess Set and Chess Board, to Edward Vonder Haar, '31.

The contest was keenly fought, and only a point margin separated several of the prize winners. Boeh succeeded in coming through without losing a game. Maggini suffered but one defeat and that in a closely played French Defense with Boeh.

Contestants who merited special mention for their splendid showing, but who did not finish within the prize-winning group, are: George Johnson, '31; Albert Muckerheide, '31; Edward Geiser, '30, and Joseph Romer, '32.

The undergraduate body of those men who have earned their monograms at St. Xavier is known as the X Club. For many years the X Club had been part of the X Association, but last year the undergraduates were organized into the present club with separate officers, but still an integral part of the X Association. The officers for the year 1929-30 were: Thomas Daugherty, president; Frank McDevitt, vice-president; Harry Foley, secretary, and Harold Stotsbery, sergeant-at-arms.

The purpose of the X Club is identical with that of the X Association, namely, to impress upon its members the great honor that is theirs in wearing the X, and to promote a closer bond of unity between the student-body and graduate letter men. The members of the X Club are in a position to form acquaintance in school, and by their efforts as alumni to further the athletic welfare of the College.

Great credit must be given to Thomas Daugherty, who worked unstintingly for the success of the club. Various social affairs were given for the members under his direction, and the good-fellowship which prevailed was enhanced by his personality. The other officers, also, were untiring in their efforts to aid the welfare of the club.

X Association

LEO V. DUBOIS
President

The purpose of the X Association is to bring the future athletes and student body of St. Xavier to a full realization of what a letter means to the man who has earned one, and to aid the material welfare of the College. The membership is composed of all who have earned their letter, whether they have graduated or not.

Last year the undergraduate branch of the X Association, the X Club, was formed. Previously all had been taken care of through the X Association. During the eight years of its existence, the Association has fostered many events for the welfare of the College, and has endeavored to create a closer bond of friendship between the graduate letter-men and the student body.

Another object of the Association is to do honor to the men who, by their feats on the gridiron, court and diamond, have brought renown to St. Xavier. By so doing, the student body is lead to attempts at duplication, and stronger athletics is assured at St. Xavier.

The great influence of the newspaper is recognized by all. Too often, however, this power is abused by those who use the publication of which they have charge to further their own unscrupulous ends, at the expense of the interests of their readers, whose welfare should be their first concern.

At no time has The Xaverian News ever deviated from the program expressed by its motto: "A Straightforward and Frank Publication of Facts." Under the editorship of George E. Winter and of Robert L. Otto, the News has shown an aggressive and constructive policy, and has been conducive to much of the good accomplished at St. Xavier during the past year. The paper has been enlarged and many new features added. The staff has aided the editors materially.

The business staff has been directed by Joseph G. McGuinness, who has amply demonstrated his ability in the administration of his duties. It was through his energy and foresight that the various contests conducted by the News were tremendous successes.

The St. Xavier literary publication—the Athenaeum—which was masquerading last year under the title of the Tri-Mester, has put aside its disguise and assumed its own name once more. Under the name Athenaeum, it was known and respected for years in Cincinnati. It is one of the city's oldest publications. For a short period the Athenaeum was inactive, but in the early part of 1926, Rev. Daniel M. O'Connell, S. J., appointed Andru Berding as editor. Mr. Berding, who is known at present as the author of "Polished Corners", was then in his senior year, helped put the Athenaeum on a sound basis by contributing several of his plays.

The purpose of this magazine is to serve as a medium of expression for the more mature work of the College students and the alumni along literary lines. A publication of such a nature is always an asset to the student body in general for it stimulates them to helpful activity in writing. The Athenaeum is issued every three months during the school year and has equalled, if not surpassed, the criterion of excellence which its predecessors maintained. That it has done so is due entirely to the untiring efforts of its editorial staff, which is composed of men selected each year on the basis of the Intercollegiate English ratings. This year the editors are Louis G. Boeh, John Cook, Albert G. Muckerheide and Edward P. Vonder Haar.

Each issue of the Athenaeum is generally composed of an editorial by one of the above mentioned men, a play, an essay of formal or informal type, book reviews, a short story and several special articles.

An intense interest is taken in the magazine by the student body and one of the highest honors a student can attain is to have his copy accepted for publication. It is the fervent hope of the present editorial board that the Athenaeum may in the near future become a monthly publication.

Programs

E. WIRT RUSSELL
Editor

ROBERT RUTHMAN
Business Manager

The athletic programs at St. Xavier fill the needs of score cards and general information of the public. The average spectator at a game knows little or nothing of the men on the field. In order to keep him informed, both on the men and on other topics of interest, the athletic programs are issued.

During the past years, under the capable direction of E. Wirt Russell, the athletic programs have kept pace with the advancement of sport at St. Xavier, and today, are some of the best published at any college. Robert Ruthman was in charge of the advertising section of the programs, and fulfilled his task so efficiently that the programs have always been financial successes.

Ordinarily, in the case of an athletic program, the issue is discarded as soon as the game is over, but in the case of the St. Xavier athletic programs, the various issues are so well written, and so attractive, that they are carried home as souvenirs of a great game. Filled with illustrations of various points of the game, and with portraits of the players, the programs are well adapted to their use as a souvenir.

Much of the credit for having upheld the true spirit of St. Xavier must be given to the programs, for they have always stood for fairness and unselfishness.

Debating Team

EDMUND D. DOYLE    WILLIAM J. WISE    CHARLES M. HOGAN    JOHN H. COOK

Mr. Edward J. McGrath, the coach of the St. Xavier team, did the splendid work which helped to mold last year's squad into the smoothly functioning piece of machinery that performed so superbly in the past season. The affirmative outfit, composed of the three gallant Musketeers—Heilker, Boeh and Doyle, put into practice the famous apothegm of all for one and one for all. In fact, they did it so well that they passed through the entire season without a defeat. The negative team, composed of John H. Cook, William Wise, Milton D. Tobin, Charles M. Hogan and Robert Maggini, only had one defeat marring an otherwise perfect record. The third position on the negative team was shared by the last three men, each participating in one debate. Mr. Anthony T. Deddens, assistant debate coach, helped round these men into form.

A dual debate with Marietta College opened the forensic season for St. Xavier. The affirmative of the topic, "Resolved: That the Nations of the World Adopt a Policy of General Disarmament," was upheld by the famous three Musketeers, while the negative side was represented by John H. Cook, William Wise and Charles M. Hogan. It was a no decision debate, and the affirmative team was the home team.

Later in the season the affirmative team traveled to Detroit and won the decision of the critic judge on the subject, "Resolved: That the United States Adopt a Policy of Naval Disarmament." The Detroit University team gave a fine exhibition of forensic skill, but the three Xaverian Musketeers proved their Waterloo. A few weeks later the St. Xavier Negative team, this time composed of but two men, William Wise and John H. Cook, met the Detroit University affirmative team in a radio debate over WLW. The subject for debate was the same as the one mentioned above, and the decision was left to the radio audience. Victory again smiled on the Xavier squad.

The second radio debate, with Loyola University of Chicago, was broadcast by WKRC. Two members of the affirmative team, Louis G. Boeh and Edmund Doyle, upheld the affirmative of the proposition, "Resolved: That the Nations of the World Adopt a Policy of General Disarmament, Except Such Powers as are Needed for Police Purposes." The radio world again picked St. Xavier as the better of the two teams, and many letters of appreciation and congratulation were received by the victorious team.

Next on the schedule came a dual debate with St. Viator College, at Bourbonnais, Illinois, and at Cincinnati. The question was again general disarmament, and the St. Xavier affirmative team, composed of Edwin T. Heilker, Louis George Boeh and Edmund D. Doyle won the decision of the critic judge, Mr. Postle, of U. C., for the home team, while the negative team, composed of John H. Cook, William Wise and Robert Maggini, lost the only debate of the season in a very bitterly fought contest.

Then after a lapse of several weeks came the major event of St. Xavier's forensic year—the debate with its friendly rival, the University of Cincinnati. The topic finally determined upon was, "Resolved: That the Principle of Chain Store Marketing is Unsound." The affirmative team, composed of Heilker, Boeh and Doyle, journeyed into enemy territory and crossed swords with L. William Hammond, William Fetic and Joseph Segal. McMicken Hall was packed with a capacity crowd which showed its generous sportsmanship by applauding even more for the visiting team than for the home team. The decision, rendered by Professor Hopkins, of Heidelberg College, was awarded to St. Xavier. The judge complimented the St. Xavier men on their delivery and construction. On the home field Tobin, Wise and Cook were opposed by Fleckner, Moebus and Apter. Here again, the critic judge, Mr. Marshmann, awarded St. Xavier the decision. He remarked that the negative arguments presented by the Xaverian trio were the best he had had the pleasure of hearing that year. This dual victory for the two Xavier teams against the University of Cincinnati brought to a close an eminently successful season.

Latin Intercollegiate Contest

ALBERT WORST

ALBERT MUCKERHEIDE

JOHN J. WINSTEL

The annual Latin Intercollegiate Contest, held between the students of the various Jesuit colleges of the Missouri and Chicago Provinces, took place on April 7. In this contest, which is one of the most important scholastic events of the year, more than a score of students participated at St. Xavier. As usual, it consisted of a two-part examination demanding ability on the part of the students to render English into Latin, and Latin into idiomatic English. The morning test consisted in turning a free translation from Cicero back into Latin. In the afternoon, the contestants were obliged to translate an excerpt from Livy.

The three best papers are chosen at each college and forwarded to St. Louis, where they compete with the best of the eleven other Jesuit colleges. The prize is a gold medal offered by the Very Rev. J. J. O'Callaghan, S.J., Provincial. St. Xavier College also guarantees an award to its students receiving mention in the finals at St. Louis.

The three papers selected to represent St. Xavier College were those of Albert Worst, '30; Albert Muckerheide, '31, and John J. Winstel, '33. Winstel is the first Freshman in several years to gain this honor. Muckerheide and Worst placed seventh and eighth, respectively, last year, in the finals.

The results this year were encouraging, since the returns from St. Louis gave St. Xavier the first three places—Worst, Muckerheide and Winstel placing in the order named.

English Intercollegiate Contest

LOUIS G. BOEH

ALBERT WORST

EDWARD P. VONDER HAAR

The keenest interest is manifested each year by the students of the College in the English Intercollegiate Contest. This fact probably accounts for the wonderful showing made by the College in leading all the Jesuit colleges of the Province in points scored in the contest during the past three years. For the English Contest, like the Latin Contest, is open to competition among the students of the twelve Jesuit colleges of the Chicago and Missouri Provinces. The prize is a purse of $100.00, which is divided among those contestants ranking among the first five when the final selections are made at St. Louis.

The subject of the English Intercollegiate this year was generally admitted to be one of the most difficult in years. The subject was: "The Catholic Layman and Graduate Studies and Research." Due to the unusual topic an extensive reading had to be done by those participating. The usual time allowed to complete the essay in former years was approximately one month; but this year the time was slightly extended because of the need of consulting a huge mass of books and periodicals in order to obtain material on the subject.

At St. Xavier, students in all classes, from Freshman to Senior, entered. Of the many papers submitted, those finally selected to be sent to St. Louis were written by Louis G. Boeh, '30; Albert Worst, '30, and Edward P. Vonder Haar, '31. All three placed when the decisions were announced, Boeh second, Worst fourth, and Vonder Haar sixth, giving the College the unique honor of being the only one to win more than a single place in this year's contest.

Washington Oratorical Contest

WILLIAM J. WISE
Winner

The Washington Oratorical Contest has always been one of the most interesting of the student activities of St. Xavier College. It is held each year on the eve of Washington's birthday, and calls forth the best efforts of the student orators. The coveted prize, the Washington Medal, is the gift of the Alumni Association.

This year's contest was held Sunday evening, February 16, in the Mary Lodge Reading Room of the College Library, and the display of oratory was the equal of any contest of the past. William J. Wise, '30, carried off the laurels. His oration, "The Great American Hypocrisy," was a severe indictment of the Eighteenth Amendment. With stirring effect and deep dramatic voice, he proclaimed his disapproval of those "who vote one way and drink another". In vivid colors he painted the injustices, the evils, and the abuses springing from the Eighteenth Amendment. In his conclusion he made an appeal that we turn from our Great American Hypocrisy to the Great American Democracy of our forefathers where each one was entitled to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. The audience showed by its loud and long continued applause that it approved the decision of the judges—Anthony B. Dunlap, '90, L.L.B.; James J. Grogan, '08, A.B., and Edward King, '08, M.D.

The other speakers were no less interesting. Vincent Spellmire, '33, delivered an admirable oration on Napoleon Bonaparte. The composition of Louis G. Boeh, '30, "The Parting of the Ways," was a plea for the League of Nations. John Anton, '32, gave a vivid portrayal of the life of Father Miguel Pro, the Mexican Jesuit who heroically gave up his life for the Faith. Edwin T. Heilker, '31, delivered his oration, "The Alternatives," in convincing style. William Muehlenkamp, '32, told the story of Jacques Marquette. The oration of Edmund D. Doyle, '30, was one of the high spots of the evening. With remarkable command of words and stirring effect he delivered his eulogy on "The Little Man in Gray—Marshal Foch."

Verkamp Debate

EDMUND D. DOYLE
Winner

The thirtieth consecutive Verkamp Debate was the best contested in the history of the event. The critic judge, Mr. Carl Rich, of the University of Cincinnati, in commenting upon it before rendering his decision, declared it to be superior to any debate between college men that he had ever heard. A comprehensive knowledge of the subject, perfect command of the vernacular, and ease on the platform characterized each speaker.

The subject of the 1930 debate was, "Resolved: That the Principle of Chain Store Merchandising is Sound." The decision was awarded to the Negative Team, composed of John H. Cook, '30; Milton D. Tobin, '30, and William J. Wise, '30. The members of the Affirmative Team were Louis G. Boeh, '30; Edmund D. Doyle, '30, and Edwin T. Heilker, '31.

Edmund D. Doyle was adjudged best debater, and the Verkamp Gold Medal awarded him. This success was a fitting culmination to his four years of outstanding intercollegiate forensic triumphs.

Theatricals

The Taming of the Shrew

W. J. WISE      RUTH MESSERSCHMIDT      CATHERINE HESS      E. T. HEILKER

Adhering to its traditional policy, the Masque Society had recourse to the classics in the presentation of its major performance of the 1929-30 scholastic year. "The Taming of the Shrew," in modern dress, assembled a cast that more than modernized this Shakespearean comedy.

Edward C. Roth, director of dramatics at St. Xavier, was generalissimo of the play, and no small part of its popularity was due to his untiring efforts. Mr. Roth assembled a large cast, headed by William J. Wise, '30, president of the Masque Society, as Petruchio, and Miss Ruth Messerschmidt as Katherine. The finesse with which these two stars handled their parts surpassed anything that had ever been done before under the colors of the society.

Very much in the spotlight, almost outshone by the leads, was Francis Brearton, '33, cast as Grumio. The seeming naturalness with which he played his part added greatly to its effectiveness. Edwin T. Heilker, '31, as Lucentio, and John Anton, '32, as Tranio, played their roles convincingly and with confidence.

Hortensio, Lucentio's persistent rival, was undertaken by George Eilerman, '31, whose pleasing voice and unaffected manner aided the play considerably. William Muehlenkamp, '32, was a graceful and swaggering Gremio.

Baptista, Edmund D. Doyle, '30, had just the proper amount of dignity to contrast with the more farcical parts. They were also made more effective by the gravity and seriousness of Vincentio, Louis A. Feldhaus, '32.

The inebriated Christopher Sly was acted well and naturally by Milton D. Tobin, '30.

Miss Camille Howell, the widow, was as attractive as widows are reputed to be, while Mary Louise Winter, Dorothy Muehlenkamp and Helen Hornback were no less alluring.

Charles H. Roth, '30, arranged the stage settings and directed the music. Assisting him behind the stage were Franklin Klaine, '30; Malvin Uchtman, '30; E. Ignatius Huesing, '30; Wilbur Breitfelder, '31; Edward Hayes, '31; Gerald Gundling, '32, and William Burkhardt, '33.

Junior Prom

Year after year the Junior Promenade of St. Xavier College seems to grow more colorful and possess a wider appeal. The members of this year's Junior Class undoubtedly lived up to precedent if their work can be gauged by the record attendance that crowded the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel Gibson. Over six hundred couples danced from nine until three to the lilting strains of Henry Theis' noted orchestra of fifteen.

Popular dance numbers generously interspersed with stirring College songs and marches made this Prom a memory to be cherished in the treasure chest of college days that every undergraduate jealously guards.

Miss Margaret Sprengard, a student at Mount St. Joseph College, was chosen Queen of the Prom and, together with Edmund D. Doyle, Senior Class president, led the Grand March when the entire coterie of collegians and friends of the College passed in review before the patrons.

Attractive and serviceable rhinestone pocket combs in blue leather cases, bearing the Class of '31 insignia, were presented to the ladies as favors.

William J. Richmond was chairman of the committee, composed of Robert Egbers, Junior Class president, Hugh H. Clines, William Joseph and Robert Brand. Edmund D. Doyle and Edward Hoban served in an advisory capacity.

It is to the lasting credit of the Class of '31 that its Junior Prom broke all attendance records and established a social precedent that will be difficult for succeeding classes to emulate. The music, the decorations and the general lavish tone with which the Promenade of 1930 was staged bespeak volumes for the proverbial Musketeer spirit that was so strikingly manifested on the night of the last Prom.

Senior Ball

Living up to tradition as Hosts Premiere and Entertainers Supreme the Senior Class of 1930 staged its ball in the colorful setting of the Highland Country Club, on May 2. Rivaling, if not surpassing, the Junior Prom in brilliance and gaiety, the ball will serve as a lasting memento for those who played the role of students on parade for the last time.

The committee, headed by Franklin Klaine, was composed of Edward Geiser, Richard Witte, Francis Vaughan, James Shea and Malvin Uchtman. No more fitting combination could have been selected to make the spring formal of the graduating class a success. Bob Ranier's orchestra supplied the music for the record crowd of two hundred couples that danced from nine until two.

At the Grand March, which started upon the stroke of midnight, an innovation was supplied when Miss Margaret Sprengard, of Mount St. Joseph College, and Mr. Edmund D. Doyle, president of the Senior Class, led the parade around the dance floor and out upon the green surrounding the club house. Headed by the orchestra, the line of marchers paraded about the golf course singing the familiar Musketeer airs under a mellow spring moon and a spot of scenic beauty enhanced by the barrier of bridal wreaths that appeared in full bloom.

Triple-strand necklaces of small pearls, designed to take the feminine eye, were given to the ladies as favors.

Never before has there been a Senior Ball at St. Xavier that enjoyed such popularity and favorable comment. The exceptional patronage of the student body and the hearty response of the alumni to the last call of the Class of '30, proved that the commendation bestowed on this year's graduates as Masterful Entertainers was not undeserved. For that final touch requisite for the assured success of any social function was always used by these Seniors to excellent advantage. In the eyes of all, the 1930 Senior Ball was a most appropriate climax to four years of social superiority.

Elet Hall

REV. J. J. SULLIVAN, S.J.

BROTHER L. WALSH, S.J.

The old adage, "Such popularity must be deserved," is truly applicable to Elet Hall. The fine accommodations and friendly atmosphere of the building have spread wide its fame, so that during the scholastic year 1929-30, its capacity was taxed. Over one hundred students had residence there.

This capacity enrollment is the result of a steady increase, which began in 1924, when but twenty students resided in the dormitory. Last year, seventy-five students from ten states were in attendance, while in the current year, fourteen states were represented.

Not a little of the satisfaction of the past and present students is attributable to the beneficent efforts of the director of Elet Hall, Rev. John J. Sullivan, S.J., and Brother Louis Walsh, S.J., who do all in their power to maintain a cheerful atmosphere for the students who are in temporary exile from their homes. The kindly discipline which is imposed in the residence

Social gatherings, dances, plays, dormitory leagues for various sports, and anything conducive to the enjoyment of the student are encouraged by the authorities in charge of Elet Hall, but stress is laid on the religious and scholastic side of life.

Athletic Director

Although St. Xavier College, since her founding in 1851, has enjoyed an excellent scholastic reputation, it has not been until recent years that she has tasted athletic fame. The teams of not so long ago were a far cry from the wonderful machines that now represent Xavier on the gridiron, diamond and court. And the battlegrounds were vastly different affairs than those which today are to be found on the campus.

This evolution from cow pastures to regulation athletic fields, from haphazard collections of individuals to well-trained, efficiently organized teams, from athletic obscurity to lime-light, took place around the year 1920.

It is interesting to observe that at this time Joe Meyer was just assuming the responsibilities of a newly-created position—Athletic Director of the College. It would seem that an Athletic Director was just what the College had needed, for immediately after the establishment of this office, the athletic stock of St. Xavier took a big jump. The teams began to be victorious, and a new spirit arose in the student body and in the alumni.

Today, some ten years after Joe took up the reins, St. Xavier presents the picture of an institution which, athletically takes a back seat to none. Her record is one without reproach. Her victories far outnumber her defeats, and her spirit has existed and grown even and especially when the game went into the left-hand column. Neither are the teams forced any longer to play on makeshift arenas. Today, the magnificent Stadium at Corcoran Field, the well layed out baseball diamond and the Field House are at their disposal.

Meanwhile Joseph Meyer has been at the helm. Consequently, when we seek the cause for the progress the College has made, we need look no farther than that office on the first floor of the Field House—the center of everything that pertains to physical education in St. Xavier—Joe's holdout.

His ability as a coach—they call him Knute Rockne's best pupil—accounts in a large measure for the success of the St. Xavier teams. His unquestioned genius for managing is responsible for the highly organized system of physical education now in effect. His untiring labors to fulfill his dreams of putting St. Xavier on the athletic map, have been rewarded. He is directly and chiefly responsible for whatever prestige St. Xavier may have today.

Student Managers

DONALD J. McHALE

MALVIN J. UCHTMAN

In every branch of college athletics there are a few men who do not come before the public eye, and as a result do not receive their due praise and thanks. They can be compared to the stage hands in a theatrical production who shift the scenery and prepare the settings so important and necessary to the success of the play. Their services are indispensable, but the credit and applause they receive is almost negligible. These unsung heroes are the student managers.

Donald J. McHale, '50, and Malvin J. Uchtman, '50, served as student managers during the past year. Their duties included the entire handling of equipment, and the general supervision of all matters relative to the athletic teams. A manager's presence is required not only at the games, but also at every practice that is held for the teams. At all times he must be ready to stand forth and serve the needs of the athletes.

McHale has been on the staff of student managers for the last four years at St. Xavier, and during that time has made many friends among the entire student body. He has been a tireless worker, and has always been faithful to the call of duty.

Uchtman, who was co-manager with McHale during the past year, should also be congratulated for his unselfish application to this work. Despite his associations with other school activities, he has competently handled all the demands that this position has placed upon his time and energy.

McHale and Uchtman were capably assisted by Edwin H. Williams, '51; John Nolan, '52, and Edward Nurre, '53.

Cheer Leaders

LOUIS HELLEBUSCH

LOUIS ADAMS

GUS GROOM

JOE PETRANKA

Cheer leaders are most necessary at every intercollegiate athletic event, and especially at football games. Their task of persuading the spectators to cheer the team on to a more valiant effort is quite difficult. There can be found instances in the pages of the college football history where the victory was in great part due to the ability of the cheer leader in drawing vocal encouragement for the team from the lips of the onlookers.

Louis "Sparky" Adams, '30, was chief of the cheering corps at St. Xavier this past year. He has been a member of this group throughout his college career. His athletic feats have come to be among the main features at St. Xavier football games. "Sparky" has always taken his cheer-leading seriously, and has resented the efforts of anyone to deprecate his efforts.

Louis "Chubby" Hellebusch, '30, who stands out prominently among the cheer leaders, has been on the staff for the past four years. Lou's main task was to arouse his "kids" to such a degree of excitement and hysteria that they shouted almost loudly enough to split everyone's ear-drums. His success in this endeavor was without parallel.

Joe Petranka and Gus Groom, both of the Junior class, have been sources of delight and amusement to the spectators during the past three years. They deserve praise for their untiring efforts.

DR. WESLEY L. FURSTE

It is unnecessary to attempt to outline the excellent qualities of Doctor Wesley L. Furste to any St. Xavier student or friend, for this popular gentleman is known to them all. Since 1925, Doctor Furste has been zealously caring for the physical welfare of the Musketeers.

At St. Xavier, Doctor Furste does not confine his activities merely to the care of our athletes, but he also coaches tennis and golf. He is an outstanding player of both of these games, and his teams have profited very much by his tutelage.

Coaches

JERRY JONES      JOE MEYER      RIP MILLER      MARK SCHMIDT

When the team wins and the season is successful, there is no doubt but that the players deserve much credit. A halfback who eludes the whole opposing team merits a great amount of praise. So also do the other ten men for their co-operation. But do you ever stop to think that behind these wonderful exhibitions of broken-field running and perfect team play there lies something more than mere physical ability?

Somebody taught that halfback how to sidestep and pivot, and those linemen to block and charge. St. Xavier is blessed with four capable coaches who are fully conversant with the branches of athletics in which they instruct Musketeer athletes. These men are: Joe Meyer, Jerry Jones, Rip Miller and Mark Schmidt.

Meyer, besides being Athletic Director, is the head of the coaching staff. He learned his football under Knute Rockne, and stands at the head of Mr. Rockne's class. He also coaches baseball and basketball. An investigation of the records his teams have made is sufficient proof of his success.

Jerry Jones, one of the greatest tackles Notre Dame ever produced, guided the destinies of the line last year. Rip Miller, the All-American Notre Dame tackle, and contemporary of the Four Horsemen, acted in co-operation with Jones towards the education of better linemen at St. Xavier. They produced a line that held.

Mark Schmidt had charge of the Freshman football and reserve basketball teams. Schmidt made the Legion of Honor in '26, and also many unpleasant afternoons for Indian, Marine, and other visiting linemen. He has been coaching the Frosh for several years and seems to have succeeded well. His reserve basketballers have not lost a game in two years.

Co-Captains

FRANK O'BRYAN

In 1929, for the first time in the history of St. Xavier College football, the Musketeer eleven was led by co-captains. Division of the field leadership between Hal Stotsbery, tackle, and Frank O'Bryan, end, did not lessen the effectiveness of the captaincy, and both men gave their best to advance the cause of St. Xavier on the gridiron.

Playing on opposite sides of the line, Stotsbery and O'Bryan were able to keep their comrades keyed up in the difficult ten-game schedule. Stotsbery was handicapped with injuries during the major part of the season, but did all possible to help the Musketeers from the sidelines with his moral support and advice to young players who took his place on the line.

O'Bryan's play in the Marine game will live many years in the minds of Musketeer football partisans. To say that Frank's effort against the Sea Soldiers was epic-making is putting the case mildly. The Devil Dog tussle was a duplication of O'Bryan's sterling play in the Haskell Indian game of 1928, when grid critics agree that "Lanky Frank's" play was as good as anything ever seen at Corcoran Field.

Stotsbery and O'Bryan both gave valuable service to the Musketeer grid machines for three consecutive years. Their places will be hard to fill, but it is hoped that Captain Dave Harmon will carry on with the 1930 St. Xavier eleven as did O'Bryan and Stotsbery with the 1929 squad.

That the Musketeer team lagged in its final half of the season was not the fault of the co-captains. A difficult schedule sapped the strength of a short-in-numbers Musketeer squad.

Corcoran Field

St. Xavier 14 — Transylvania 6

Transylvania University's football team is gathering more power each year and the eleven of that institution gave the Musketeers a hard battle at Corcoran Field, September 29, in the opening game of the season. St. Xavier eked out a 14 to 6 victory after an hour of hectic play. Frank McDevitt and Cy Bolger scored touchdowns for St. Xavier. Dave Harmon and John Markiewicz began in this game their aggressive style of play and to them is due most of the credit of repulsing the Pioneer running attack. Transylvania's score came late in the game, but the invaders were a constant threat to the Musketeers. St. Xavier played straight football to gain the victory.

St. Xavier 25 — Georgetown 13

Smooth-working offensive tactics brought to St. Xavier a 25 to 13 decision over Georgetown College, at Corcoran Field, October 5. Co-captain Frank O'Bryan played one of his best games of the season. O'Bryan and Cy Bolger each came through with a pair of touchdowns and St. Xavier was in no real danger throughout the entire game. Frank McDevitt's forward passing was excellent and St. Xavier's aerial game showed well. Georgetown used the sky game effectively and both of the Tigers' touchdowns came via the air. Co-captain Hal Stotsbery was a tower of strength at tackle for the Musketeers.

WEST VIRGINIA WESLEYAN

October 12, 1929

Corcoran Field

St. Xavier 19 — West Virginia Wesleyan 12

The under-dog had his day, October 12, when a fighting mad St. Xavier team rose in its might to turn back the West Virginia Wesleyan Bobcats by a score of 19 to 12. Many fans believe that the Bobcats were the best team St. Xavier played in football in 1929. The Musketeer forwards stopped to a walk the line thrusts of Kelly Rodriguez, reputed to be one of the best backs in the East. Frank McDevitt was the Musketeer offensive weapon and made all of St. Xavier's 19 points. The fact that Wesleyan scored the first touchdown of the game makes the Musketeer victory all the more impressive.

St. Xavier 14 — Centre 0

Defensive football held the boards in the St. Xavier-Centre College football game at Corcoran Field, October 19. The Musketeers payed strict attention to the business of winning the game and came out on top by a 14 to 0 score. Frank McDevitt and Kenny Schaefer scored the six-pointers for St. Xavier. Schaefer had one of his best days against the Colonels and was a big power in the Musketeer victory. Centre came here with a good record and the Musketeer victory was well received. Hal Stotsbery and Bernard Wilhelm missed the game because of injuries. The victory was St. Xavier's third over a Kentucky team.

UNITED STATES MARINES

October 26, 1929

Corcoran Field

St. Xavier 14 — Marines 13

A story-book finish gave to St. Xavier its fifth victory of the season in the U. S. Marine game at Corcoran Field, October 26. Although the Musketeers were outgained in yardage by the Marines the scorers had a total of 14 points for St. Xavier and 13 for the Sea Soldiers after the completion of an hour of battle. Co-captain Frank O'Bryan played a spectacular game against the Devil Dogs, and made both of St. Xavier's touchdowns. O'Bryan intercepted a forward pass in the final thirty seconds of play and scampered 58 yards to the pay-line. Bud Rielage was of much help to the Musketeers in stopping the rushes of the veteran Marine players.

WESTERN RESERVE

November 2, 1929

Cleveland, Ohio

St. Xavier 6 — Western Reserve 18

Five straight victories were all that St. Xavier could stand and the Musketeers lost their grip in the tilt with Western Reserve University, at Cleveland, November 2. No reason can be given for the defeat other than the oft-quoted "one of those things", or the admittance of the fact that St. Xavier was surfeited with tough football games after the first half of the season. Andy Schmidt was the bright light for the Musketeers in the Western Reserve game. Kenny Schaefer scored St. Xavier's only touchdown. The game wound up with the Redcats ahead by an 18 to 6 score. A slow field hampered the successful use of the Musketeer forward-pass attack.

DAYTON

November 9, 1929

Corcoran Field

St. Xavier 0 — Dayton 15

Governor Myers Y. Cooper's beautiful trophy cup was taken back to Dayton by the university team of that city, November 9, as a result of the Flyers' 15 to 0 victory over St. Xavier. The game was a continuation of St. Xavier's listless play shown in Cleveland the preceding week. Dave Harmon was the satellite of the Musketeers and allowed few gains of yardage through center. The day was warm and not an urge to good football. The Musketeer offense slumped badly. St. Xavier's punting was very much inferior to that of Dayton. Several switches were made in the Musketeer starting line-up with little success.

OGLETHORPE

November 16, 1929

Corcoran Field

St. Xavier 0 — Oglethorpe 7

A rejuvenated St. Xavier team fought a gallant battle against the stalwarts of Oglethorpe University, at Corcoran Field, November 16, in a game that closed with the Southerners on the winning end of a 7 to 0 count. Oglethorpe had defeated Georgia University, and St. Xavier added to its prestige by the good game against the Stormy Petrels. Oglethorpe scored its touchdown early in the fourth quarter. Tom Daugherty was one of the high-lights of the Musketeer team. Frank Kniery played a hard game at tackle, and was responsible for repulsing Petrel slices at his side of the line. Oglethorpe's team was exceptionally well drilled.

St. Xavier 12 — Denison 0

In fitting form St. Xavier dedicated its new $500,000 Stadium, November 23, with a victory over the B. A. A. team of Denison University by a 12 to 0 score. It was home-coming day for St. Xavier alumni, and hundreds of old grads saw the Musketeers recover from a losing streak and score a clean-cut victory over the Denison eleven. Harry Foley and Frank McDevitt made St. Xavier's two touchdowns. Foley's play sparkled for the Musketeers. St. Xavier was the only Ohio Conference team to defeat a B. A. A. eleven in football in 1929. Denison's clean style of play occasioned many favorable comments from Cincinnati sport fans.

HASKELL

November 28, 1929

Corcoran Field

St. Xavier 0 — Haskell 13

Haskell Institute came out of the West with a remarkably strong football team and won a hard-fought tussle from St. Xavier by a 13 to 0 score on Thanksgiving Day. The Indians held a big advantage over the Musketeers in weight and size. On two occasions St. Xavier's line repulsed Redmen thrusts within the shadow of the goal posts. Co-captains Hal Stotsbery, Frank O'Bryan, and Tom Daugherty played their last intercollegiate grid games in the Indian fracas. Tom Morrissey's punting was a distinct asset to St. Xavier. John Markiewicz continued his sterling line play in the Indian game and was selected on several all-Ohio teams after the close of the season.

NOTES

Paul Beckwith's kicking was the best seen at St. Xavier for a long, long time . . . Willard Taylor should star next season. He played well until hurt . . . Carl Sprengard proved that he possesses ability, but was handicapped by inexperience . . . Andy Schmidt, who was the sole star of the Western Reserve game, should play regularly next season . . . The 1929 season was marked by a general lack of co-operation, due to the fact that the team was green.

Captain-Elect

DAVID HARMON
Captain

For the season of 1930, David Harmon has been selected as captain of the football team. Harmon, a native of Indiana, attended Cathedral High School in the capital of the Hoosier State, where he was active in both football and baseball. Indeed, he came to St. Xavier with the reputation of being an "All-State" athlete, and a plucky football player. It would be superfluous to treat of the manner in which he has enhanced this reputation. His team-mates in selecting him for their leader, could not have made a happier choice.

The coming season will witness Dave's third and last year as a member of the Musketeer team. But if the success enjoyed by Dave on the gridiron in previous seasons continues to favor him, every Xavier rooter may rest confident in 1930. Harmon is a center, and in that position he has been instrumental in starting many a good play. As a defensive player he has seen few equals, and it was for this outstanding work that he secured mention on several all-Ohio teams in the past year.

The Freshman Football Team of the 1929 season was one of the most powerful in the history of the College. Under the able guidance of Coach Mark A. Schmidt, a former St. Xavier guard, the Frosh proved themselves to be a heavy, hard-driving football team. In all scrimmages with the Varsity they demonstrated a remarkable amount of skill, and a fine fighting spirit. Both teams profited greatly from these encounters.

The Freshman chose Harold McPhail as their captain. Besides showing that he was an able fullback, "Mac" demonstrated his capacity for leadership, and was a most popular and efficient field general. He was graduated from Aquinas High School of Columbus, where he won letters in football, baseball, and basketball. He should be a valuable man at St. Xavier during the next three years.

Due to a ruling in the Ohio Conference, of which St. Xavier is a member, the Frosh were not permitted to play any games, but scrimmages with the representative team afforded them ample action. This enabled Coach Meyer to see that he will have much strong material for his forward wall for the next three years. The most outstanding linemen were Frank Mercurio, Gordon McNaughton, George Lenk, Patrick Slattery, Omar Cannon and Jim Niederlehner. The backfield had two fine halfbacks in Robert Meiners and Dan Sheehan. Alvin Stadler filled the quarterback position.

Basketball

Basketball

Basketball at St. Xavier College enjoyed none too good a season. Just why the Musketeer team fell below normal is not apparent on the surface as there was plenty of material available and many men who were aces of the preceding year's Freshman team were ready for service on the College squad, in addition to several veterans.

The records show that St. Xavier won eight games and lost eight. Two gallant stands against Loyola University of Chicago, and a victory over the University of Detroit, were the high-lights of the winter campaign.

St. Xavier started its hoop campaign in an impressive character, winning four consecutive games. The team defeated Cedarville College by a 28 to 17 score, which was identical with the preceding year's count. Georgetown College could not cope with the Musketeer offense, and lost 35 to 20.

Kentucky Wesleyan challenged St. Xavier in a hard-fought battle, but lost 20 to 18. The Musketeer string of wins went to four games when Kenyon College was the victim of a one-point decision, losing 24 to 23.

The Musketeers traveled to Chicago and played Loyola in its own back yard, only to lose 18 to 13. Chicago newspapers said that the Musketeer game was the best shown against the Ramblers on their home floor that season. Returning to the Field House, St. Xavier lost by a point to the University of Dayton, 20 to 19. Centre was not up to its regular strength in basketball, and was vanquished easily by the Musketeers, 31 to 16.

Loyola came here and won from St. Xavier, 18 to 15, which was a duplication of the tilt at Chicago. Jimmy Stout sparkled in the Musketeer effort to stop the Chicago team's win streak. Ohio Wesleyan was the next team to play here, and the Bishops carried far too many guns for the tottering Musketeers. Wesleyan won 37 to 19.

The Alumni banded together and gave the Musketeer squad a fight to the last second in a 25 to 22 tussle. Denison upheld B. A. A. standards by defeating St. Xavier 30 to 27. Wittenberg was the next visiting team to topple the Musketeers, and the Lutherans won 27 to 20.

The Musketeers traveled to Dayton and won from the Flyers by a 27 to 20 score. The goal-shooting of Ed Tepe was outstanding and St. Xavier showed some of its old-time form. Detroit lost to the Musketeers at the Auto City, 25 to 18. St. Xavier could not run its road, game winnings to two games, and fell before Western Reserve, 30 to 24. In the final game of the season, Detroit gained revenge for its previous defeat at St. Xavier's hands, and won here 36 to 24.

Tom Daugherty was elected honorary captain of the Musketeers at the close of the season. Jim Stout was chosen the Musketeer field leader for 1930-31. Letters were awarded to James Stout, Robert Sack, Joseph Bartlett, John Tracy, Edward Tepe, Paul Beckwith, Thomas Daugherty, Charles Hope, Bernard Wilhelm and Cy Bolger. Sack led the team in scoring, and was the most consistent player of the season.

TOM DAUGHERTY
Basketball Captain

Once in a very long time one encounters a man of whom it can truly be said that he is a "born athlete". St. Xavier's so-favored son is Tom Daugherty, her beloved and versatile master of passing, throwing, hitting and kicking all manner of balls known to mankind. Lest the meaning of the antecedent sentence be twisted by the malicious or the uninformed, let it be known to all it may concern that Daugherty handles each ball in the most expert manner, being excellent basketball, football and baseball player.

No one who has ever seen Daugherty play without remarking his marvelous spirit. Game won or lost, he never gave up. The ghosts of his Irish ancestors seemed to be with him as he gave his all in every game. As a result of this, no St. Xavier player ever had more popular support than Tom Daugherty. Uninitiated fans would soon inquire his name, and from then on, honored him with constant applause.

The basketball team sensed his power of leadership and tendered him their captaincy. His inspirational play was outstanding in every game.

JAMES STOUT
Basketball Captain-Elect

Not only are the qualities which go to make up the ideal athlete united in the 1930-31 basketball leader, but infinitely more. Those who are intimate with him know that he has suffered much for the honor of St. Xavier, but no one has ever heard him utter any complaint about his misfortune in being injured so many times during his Sophomore and Junior years.

Most of Jim Stout's hurts have been sustained in football, in which he starred in 1929, after a summer in the hospital, but so great has been his spirit that he has been among the first to report for basketball practice at the beginning of the last two seasons. He has played regularly during them both, and his unerring eye for the basket has been the cause of a great number of Xavier's court victories.

It was with these points in mind that the basketball team chose Stout as their 1930-31 captain. With a veteran team returning, and with personal freedom from injuries, he should lead the best team in Musketeer history.

Baseball

Baseball

First Row—HARMON, DAUGHERTY, KELLEY, TRACY, KEELEY. Second Row—HAAS, STOUT, WILHELM, BODE, BECKWITH, DEDDENS. Third Row—ELSBROCK, MURPHY, TEPE, RIELAGE, NOLAN, MEINERS.

The Musketeer outfit this year was composed of hard-hitting ballplayers who never rounded into real fielding form. The result of this situation was that St. Xavier was always able to get runs when at bat, but when afield gave away too many runs to have a highly successful season.

Lack of pitching material hampered the team. Bob Otto and Gene Bode improved very much during the season. Paul Beckwith and Paul Kelley, both outfielders, did well when pressed into service in the box.

Coach Mark A. Schmidt's men lost to Michigan State College by a 9 to 2 score, in the opening game of the season at Corcoran Field. The Michigan team scored six runs in the third inning to unbalance an otherwise close game. The Musketeers were the recipients of more grief at Huntington, West Virginia, where the Marshall College representatives won two games by scores of 7 to 6 and 11 to 3. The University of Kentucky tossers were hosts to the team at Lexington, but very inhospitably treated them to a 16 to 4 thrashing.

Three victories followed for the Musketeers. Lincoln Memorial University, Harrogate, Tennessee, was defeated at Corcoran Field on successive days, by the scores of 15 to 6 and 6 to 3. West Virginia University was let down with a 9 to 8 defeat.

Captain Bob Elsbrock, first baseman, was one of the most consistent performers for the Musketeers. He has given three years of service to St. Xavier's baseball teams and acquitted himself well in the final season.

Other members of the baseball squad were Dave Harmon, Tom Daugherty, Paul Kelley, John Tracy, Robert Keeley, Bill Haas, Jim Stout, Bernard Wilhelm, Gene Bode, Paul Beckwith, Lloyd Deddens, Griffin Murphy, Edward Tepe, Charles Rielage, John Nolan, Cliff Meiners, Robert Otto, Joe Bartlett and Charles Ryan.

Musketeer fans look forward to a better baseball team next year as only a few players will be lost through graduation.

The remainder of the 1950 baseball schedule includes games with the University of Dayton, Lincoln Memorial Institute, University of West Virginia, and Marshall College.

The baseball diamond at Corcoran Field was in first-class shape and was a boon to interest in the sport. For two years St. Xavier was without a home baseball grounds, but the future of the sport is now bright because of the new grounds which represent an investment of many thousands of dollars.

ROBERT ELSBROCK
Captain

The baseball team was led this season by a player who has many times demonstrated both his perfect calmness and his talent for leadership. This player was Bob Elsbrock, who plays first sack for the team.

In addition to his very good habit of hitting well over 300 during the past two seasons, Elsbrock has a penchant for delivering base blows at the psychological moment, so to speak. It was he who broke up the West Virginia game with a beautiful two-bagger in the ninth inning. Many others have been decided by his bat.

Bob has been described as "poetry in motion" at first base. The other infielders knew from experience that anything like a good throw would be handled in the best of style by this potential big-leaguer.

JACK MAHONY
Captain

The track season was ushered in shortly after Christmas, with the two veteran stalwarts, Captain Jack Mahony and Bob Brand, as the nucleus of the squad. Lack of seasoned material was the cloud in Coach Tom Sharkey's sky, but he managed to uncover a number of good men during the season. Sharkey's success was phenomenal, when the paucity of the numbers with which he had to work is taken into consideration. The former Miami star has amply demonstrated his ability as a track coach in his two years at St. Xavier.

Sharkey was able to start only four men in the first three indoor meets in which the team took part, but this limited number amassed enough points in each meet to place themselves well up in the running when the team totals were added.

The first meet in which the Musketeers took part was the annual Y. M. C. A. Carnival, at which was gathered a brilliant array of stars from Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana. Mahony's able performance in the 220-yard was the outstanding event of the evening. The Carnival was held at the St. Xavier Field House.

TIM HOGAN JACK MAHONY BOB BRAND PAUL HUGHES

The following week saw the Cincinnati Public Recreation Meet at the Field House. With only three entries, St. Xavier won enough points to win second place. Miami University was first, and the University of Cincinnati, third. Both of these institutions were represented by full teams, with men competing in every event. Ohio Wesleyan and the University of Kentucky were also represented by teams.

Jack Mahony broke the Ohio indoor record for the 220 by running this distance in 23 2-5 seconds. He was closely pursued by Bob Brand, who was second. Brand led the field to the tape in the 50-yard dash. His time was 5 2-5 seconds, which tied the world's record. Paul Hughes won the 440-yard dash. This promising Sophomore showed his versatility by placing third in the high jump.

Mahony and Brand traveled to the National Inter-Scholastic Relays, held in January at Louisville. They entered only one event, the 75-yard dash, which Brand won. Mahony was second.

Jack Elder and Dick Mahony, Notre Dame track and football stars, raced Brand and Mahony in two 50-yard heats, February 5. Elder beat Brand by the margin of a few inches each time. Jack Mahony and Dick Mahony placed third and fourth, respectively.

The outdoor season is in full swing at the time this volume goes to press. The only outdoor meet completed so far in which the Musketeers have taken part was the Ohio Relays at Ohio State University. Mahony and Brand both qualified for the finals of the University 100-yard dash. Brand was second in the College 100-yard dash.

Tim Hogan and Jack Dryer alternated in the fourth position in the relay team. They improved with experience. Frank McDevitt was running well until his leg was hurt in the Public Recreation meet.

Golf

Golfers of St. Xavier College were well on their way to a successful season when the MUSKETEER went to press. Led by the par-hounding Captain Hugh Clines, the Musketeers won two of their first four meets. St. Xavier lost the first golf meet of the season to the University of Kentucky by a 14 to 4 score. Then came another defeat at the hands of Kenyon College, the Gambier team winning 14 to 4.

The Musketeers braced after their bad start and handed out successive defeats to Kentucky and Centre College. St. Xavier won the second Kentucky meet by a score of 10 to 8. Centre proved no match for Captain Clines and his fellow players who won, 15 to 5.

In addition to Captain Clines, other members of the golf squad were William J. Richmond, Jr., Jerome Luebbers, and Eugene Clifford. All of the divot-diggers won valuable points for the Musketeers. Dr. Wesley L. Furste, team coach, plans to enter a pair of players in the National Intercollegiate Golf Tournament this summer. None of the players will be lost through graduation.

Tennis Team

Lack of practice and the presence of no letter men were contributing factors to the little success of the Tennis Team during the season just completed. Coach Furste was handicapped by the fact that he had only two men who were veterans of intercollegiate play with which to form the nucleus of his net aggregation.

Tom Zumbiel and George Winter were the two outstanding players on the squad. Winter was particularly effective in doubles. All team members, except Zumbiel, return next season. Among the best prospects are Hugh "Spike" Clines, who is also golf captain; Arnold Scully, who showed brilliant flashes this season; William Muehlenkamp, who is steady in the pinches; Griffin Murphy, who mixes tennis and baseball, and William McGowan, a Freshman who won the intra-mural tournament in October.

Intra-Mural Athletics

MARK A. SCHMIDT
Director

Due to the fact that the vast majority of undergraduates are unable to become members of the Varsity teams, and also to the fact that a great number of them demonstrate an ardent desire to participate in sports, intra-mural athletics were initiated at St. Xavier College in 1927. Students greeted their advent with approval, and have ever since shown marked enthusiasm for this form of organized and directed exercise.

The word "intra-mural" is of Latin derivation, and means "within the walls". Intra-mural athletics, therefore, mean those sporting contests in which the participants are students of the same college. They allow a greater number of undergraduates to compete than do intercollegiate athletics, for while the latter places a premium on skill and aptitude, the latter demands only a desire to participate. Every student may take part in the intra-mural program at St. Xavier, if he so desires. A great number of them have availed themselves of this opportunity, and by so doing have derived the greatest pleasure and benefit.

Intra-mural athletics at St. Xavier include basketball, handball, track, tennis and indoor baseball. Each of these sports claims a large number of adherents. Large crowds of spectators viewed almost every contest, especially those which involved championships. Fierce rivalries developed, and all contests were hotly contested. The teams were as evenly matched as the directors could make them, and it is to their credit that there was only a shade of difference between the championship and last-place teams in each sport.

To Mark A. Schmidt, who was the first sponsor of intra-mural athletics at St. Xavier, and to whom their ever-increasing success is due, all St. Xavier students are deeply grateful.

The Best "Book of the Month"

THIS book we are talking about is written in figures—a language everybody understands. The story is so simply told and so readily comprehensible that illustration is unnecessary. The figures, however, paint beautiful pictures of travel, vacation, automobiles, homes, and no end of things you long for.

The book has not been reviewed by literary critics, but it has the hearty endorsement of everybody who possesses it, which includes people in about every walk of life. There are not many pages in it, but it is chock full of meat. You never will possess a book that you prize more.

The title of this book is "The Bank Book." Your very destiny depends upon your having one. Once you have it you can add and add to the story, and with each addition it gets more interesting. To top it all, each addition you make brings you more return per pen mark than is enjoyed by the best-paid novelists. The book is free every day in the year at the PROVIDENT. All you need do is make a small deposit. Stop in at the home office or at either of the eleven convenient branches at your first opportunity. We never run out of them.

In Appreciation

FOR the many courtesies rendered the MUSKETEER, the staff takes this occasion to thank the following concerns and individuals: The Mountel Press Co. which had charge of the printing work; the Schultz-Gosiger Engraving Co. which took care of all engraving matter; the Ars Cover Company whose staff designed the cover; the photographers, Mr. John B. Williams and Mr. Dan Morganthaler; the artist, Mr. Joseph A. Albers, for his suggestions on the art-work; and Rev. J. J. Sullivan, S.J., who freely gave us the benefit of his advice.
